Speculation Follows Trip by LBJ

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In the wake of President Johnson's meeting with Pope Paul VI, reports spread in Vatican circles today that the pontiff will send a peace mission soon to North Vietnam.

It was impossible to confirm whether the reports were leaks inspired by leading Vatican officials preparing the ground for such a mission, or simply logical speculation.

The reports first appeared in the Turin daily La Stampa, considered usually well informed on Vatican affairs. Afternoon Rome dailies later carried much the same story.

A Vatican spokesman, asked about the reports, commented: "It appears that what La Stampa writes is mainly speculation. We know no more than what was said in the communique after Johnson met with the Pope."

There was no joint communique issued after that meeting the night of Dec. 23. The President stopped off in Rome on his way home from Australia to discuss Vietnam with the Pope.

Agrees in Principle

Johnson said afterward he would agree to stop the U.S. bombings if the principle of mutual restraint were also accepted by North Vietnam.

He told the Pope American war prisoners held in North Vietnam were being denied their rights. He also added he would be keeping in touch with the pontiff in the days ahead on the Vietnam issue.

The La Stampa story said: "After the meeting between Johnson and Paul it is expected that soon a Vatican delegation will be sent to North Vietnam."

It said the initial purpose would be to obtain more humane treatment for American war prisoners, but that this would provide the chance for political contacts with the hope of preparing the way for preliminary talks aimed at starting peace negotiations.

The Rome daily Memento Sera claimed that the head of the delegation might be the Rt. Rev. George Huebner, head of the German division of Caritas Internationalis, a Roman Catholic aid and charity organization.

Earlier Visit

Msgr. Huebner visited Hanoi last January to survey what hospital equipment and other aid for war victims might be needed there. He was the first Roman Catholic church official sent to Hanoi since the partition of the country in 1954.

Whether a Vatican delegation to Hanoi is being planned, the circumstances of the meeting of the Pope and the President prompted speculation that the pontiff is now taking a more active part in efforts to promote peace in Vietnam.

It is generally believed that he would not have made his offer to act as a personal mediator between Washington and Hanoi unless he felt he could carry out diplomatic tasks as a go-between.

The Vietnam War in 1967

'Fight to the Finish'

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietnam war spiraled to new heights in 1967. A year of action from one end of the country to the other has left knowledgeable Americans concerned at the possibility of bigger and bloodier battles ahead.

Both sides claimed numerous victories this year. In the terms of reference both used, both were right.

American commanders tend to analyze Vietnam in terms of World War II. The Communists see the war in terms of the fight to oust the colonial French in the 1950s.

As this year ends military tacticians cannot determine that even one decisive battle has been fought. At the demilitarized zone both sides are bogged down in the mud and slush of the monsoon season. Hill 875 and the other headlined heights of Dak To are being taken over again by the jungle and avoided by both sides since the bloody battles of November.

Curtain Raiser

Many persons see 1967 as a curtain-raiser to a military showdown in 1968. This year's developments tend to support this thinking.

The Communists put to a severe test the allied tactics of attrition espoused by Gen. William C. Westmoreland. At the DMZ U.S. Marine officers estimated that casualties taken by both sides were on a one-to-one basis all year long.

to the war is based partly on the huge total of enemy dead—more than 80,000 this year by allied reckoning. But the Communists continued to commit men in seemingly pointless battles right up to the year's end.

Killings of more than 100 enemy troops at a time were confirmed particularly along the Cambodian border north of Saigon. An American brigade commander said: "Don't let us forget that the Viet Minh lost an estimated half a million dead in the struggle against the French. They are much better organized now and they have lost nowhere near that number in this war."

Another senior officer said: "Let's face it. Either because

Garrison Takes First Steps To Extradite Latest Suspect

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His lawyer says Edgar Eugene Bradley will fight extradition to face charges by New Orleans Dist. Atty. James Garrison that Bradley conspired to kill President John F. Kennedy.

"I will fight extradition tooth and nail," attorney George Jensen said Tuesday. "I will not let him go to Louisiana."

The attorney said Bradley would surrender today in Los Angeles.

The complaint was based on a Louisiana warrant obtained by Garrison charging Bradley with conspiracy to commit murder.

In a news conference Tuesday in New Orleans, Garrison said Bradley worked in 1964 to drum up presidential support in California for FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

He also declared that Lee Harvey Oswald, identified by the Warren Commission as Kennedy's assassin, was an agent of the Central Intelligence Agency and that Oswald had tipped the FBI about the assassination plot five days before it happened. He said Oswald was a "patsy."

The Louisiana warrant "doesn't mention President Kennedy or any other alleged victim," Dist. Atty. Evette J. Younger told a news conference Tuesday.

Procedural Act

Younger added that the complaint "does not indicate opinion on our part as to the validity of the charge or the guilt or innocence of Mr. Bradley."

Younger said the complaint was just "a simple procedural act to get this person into court." The case can be continued for up to 30 days for Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen to undertake extradition proceedings. The final decision rests with California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Bradley has denied Garrison's accusations, contending he knows nothing of Kennedy's killing other than what has been made public.

He is the second man Garrison has charged with conspiracy in the 1963 assassination of

Kennedy in Dallas. Under indictment is a New Orleans businessman, Clay Shaw.

At his news conference, Garrison declined to discuss the charges against Bradley, saying it would prejudice his case.

Garrison said he had evidence the conspirators' final meeting took place Nov. 17, 1963 and that on "that day, the FBI sent out an interbureau telegram announcing the Nov. 22 assassination attempt."

Garrison said the telegram was sent to Hoover and that "what came down to President Kennedy you can judge for yourself in that he was allowed to ride without a bubbletop (on his car) in that parade in Dallas."

Garrison repeated his charge that President Johnson has "actively concealed evidence of the murder of his predecessor," adding that "he can't be allowed to get away with it."

1 Dead, 25 Injured In Plant Explosion

HANOVER, Mass. (AP) — Fire and explosion today ripped a frame building at the Atlantic Research Corp., manufacturers of anti-personnel mines for use in Vietnam, killing one person and injuring at least 25 others.

The small wooden structure was used for mixing explosives, police said, and a small fire touched off the explosion.

Ahram had indicated earlier in the day that Egypt would undertake the project to free the ships.

Al Ahram, which often speaks for President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said Nasser's government "undertook an extensive study of the problem in all its aspects" and established that clearance of the southern part of the waterway was "feasible."

The paper said the government made the study in response to repeated requests from Poland, France and Britain, which have ships trapped in the canal, and from India.

Egypt turned down a similar request last September, insisting that no part of the canal could be cleared until Israeli troops withdrew from the east bank of the canal and other territories they occupied in the June war.

By refusing to clear the northern end of the canal and reopen it to navigation, Nasser would still retain a bargaining lever to support his demands for Israeli withdrawal.

Al Ahram gave no indication when clearing operations might start or how long they were expected to take.

Allied Forces Wipe Out Half of Enemy Battalion

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese soldiers and rocket-spewing American helicopters wiped out half of a Communist battalion Tuesday.

The Red force of less than 500 men left 203 bodies on the coastal battlefield just below the demilitarized zone and dragged off more dead and wounded when it slipped away during the night.

Fifteen South Vietnamese were killed, 59 were wounded, and the gunners of the crack 418th Viet Cong Battalion shot down two American helicopters and riddled several more.

Three U.S. helicopter crewmen and an American infantry adviser were wounded, along with one Australian adviser.

It was the first major battle after the 24-hour Christmas truce proclaimed by the South Vietnamese. The fighting began more than 12 hours before the end of the three-day cease-fire ordered by the Viet Cong.

The battle flared early Tuesday when a South Vietnamese battalion swept out on a search-and-destroy operation northeast of Quang Tri city. The South Vietnamese caught the Red force in the coastal flats and pinned it to the coast as a second government battalion was rushed up with armored vehicles to block the enemy's escape routes.

Artillery and jet planes pounded the Viet Cong, and then the helicopters whirled in with rockets and machine guns blazing. They were credited with a large part of the enemy casualties.

The cloud ceiling ranged from 2000 to 3000 feet over most of the country and only one raid struck deep into the interior, at a boatyard some 20 miles up the Red River from Hanoi.

The other strikes raked coastal roads, rails and canals from below Hanoi to the demilitarized zone. Navy pilots reported 20 sampans blasted out of the water and 20 trucks destroyed or damaged.

U.S. B52 bombers returned to the central highlands, dropping some 50,000 pounds of bombs in an area close to the Cambodian border from which enemy gunners had been harassing American planes and firing mortar shells at American camps. Observers said the area was dotted by secondary explosions.

Less than five miles from the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon a bivouac of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division was heavily mortared and 15 GIs were wounded. The Communists also lobbed tear gas shells into one part of the defense ring but failed to follow up with a ground attack.

Aussie Regiment Allied troop strength in South Vietnam rose with the arrival of 500 men of the Royal Australian Regiment's 3rd Battalion. There are now 7,500 Australians in the country, and the number will reach 8,000 when the rest of the new battalion arrives shortly.

The 3rd Battalion was a U.S. Presidential Unit Citation in 1951 in Korea. It was the first Aussie unit in action in Korea and stayed there until the end of the war.

King May be Met by Premier

ATHENS (AP) — Reliable sources said today King Constantine may return to Greece before New Year's Day and will be greeted by Premier George Papadopoulos, the man he attempted to oust from power.

Papadopoulos, accompanied by Deputy Premier Stylianos Patakos, flew off for northern Greece for a tour of the provinces.

The grand marshal of the royal court, Leonidas Papagos, who fled to Rome with the king after the abortive Dec. 13 coup, returned from Rome Tuesday, reportedly to prepare for the king's return. He said he came back to attend to some personal problems.

Reliable sources said the royal family probably would land at a military air base near Athens to avoid curious crowds.

Some sources speculated that the royal plane would land at Tatoi airbase, near the Greek royal family's permanent suburban residence from where the king started out early on Dec. 13 to begin his abortive coup.

'Work to All' Papadopoulos in a New Year's message to Greeks residing abroad, urged their return, saying that the country "is being cleansed, reorganized and modernized at such a rapid pace so that, within a short time, it will be able to offer the happiness of work to all of its children who have emigrated."

Security police said it was unlikely that leftist composer Miki Theodorakis would be released from prison today under the Christmas amnesty. They said certain formalities have not been fulfilled yet and he may be out by late Thursday. They did not elaborate.

Sources close to the government, asked to clarify who was affected by the Christmas amnesty announced by Papadopoulos, said the government is now going through the files of all the 2,600 political prisoners on the islands of Leros and Yioira.

The aim is to separate those convicted of crimes in the past and those regarded as Communists before they are released, they reported.

However, security committees have been screening the prisoners on the islands for the past eight months and pressing them to sign a no-politics pledge to obtain their release.

The Fox Valley was still locked in the grip of a cold wave today — with no immediate relief in sight. The official low in Appleton overnight failed to reach the zero reading, but only by one degree.

Tonight, however, the weatherman promises temperatures of at least minus 5 degrees, and possibly lower.

In addition, the five-day forecast shows average temperatures in the Valley of 6 to 12 degrees below normal, which puts the anticipated overnight lows at anywhere down to minus 10 degrees and daytime highs of no better than freezing.

Fair skies are expected to prevail until Friday, although scattered and frequent snow flurries can be expected early in the weekend.

All Wisconsin highways, except in the northeastern section, were in good winter driving condition today, according to the State Division of Highways. Widely scattered slippery spots prevailed in northeastern areas.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department Tuesday announced that Army Spec. 4 Bernard P. Meinen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard C. Meinen of Chippewa Falls, Wis., was killed in recent action in Vietnam.

Egypt Agrees to Clear Southern Half of Canal

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt may soon release the 15 ships stranded in the southern half of the Suez Canal but the waterway will not be cleared and reopened to international shipping unless Israel evacuates its troops from the Sinai Peninsula, an official Egyptian spokesman said today.

Dr. Mohamed Hassan el Zayat told a news conference the government is studying a plan to remove a sunken ship from the southern portion of the canal to allow the trapped vessels to leave. But he said the canal would remain closed to shipping until Israel pulls back.

"We cannot reopen the canal under the shadow of Israeli guns on the east bank of the canal," he said.

Captain Finds Safe Is Safe For 40 Years

SAN PEDRO Calif. (AP) — The ship captain on the telephone was adamant. "I left my pocket watch for repairs, and they told me I could get it any time," Capt. H. S. Kemble of Honolulu said Tuesday.

In addition, contestants have the chance to win a local prize. After selling the 24-carat case qualifying prize which will also be a magic feature — a magic left the mechanism at the South-trick called "Scrambled Beads" in which three colored beads are placed in a tube turn around and emerge in reverse order. Five of these tricks will be awarded to boys and girls of the Fox Cities area. Their contest entries will then be considered, along with qualified entries from all other cities where this column is published, in the selection of the five national prize winners.

The Hocus Pocus set includes enough magic tricks to stage a show for family and friends and the tricks may be performed again and again, show after show. Included are such famous effects as the Linking Rings and the Rice Bowl tricks. Directions accompany all the tricks.

To enter the contest all you need do is find one house among the 25 in the picture above that is different from all the others. The difference is in clear view, but you must search carefully to find it. Mark it in some way to show which house you believe it is. Clip out the picture, paste it on a piece of paper, print your name, age, address and zip code number beneath it, then add any decorations you believe will make the entry neat and original in appearance. Use paints, crayons, cutouts or other suitable means.

As the last step, address the entry to Cappy Dick's Midwest Hocus Pocus Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be published here. Their awards will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property. None will be returned.

Tomorrow: directions for making "flip-the-buttons" game!

Doctor Draws Pistol, Fire 5 Bullets at Would-be Assailants

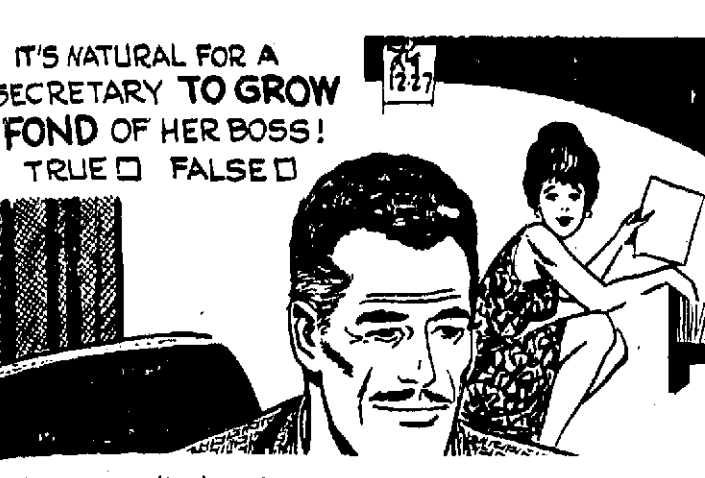

WILMINGTON, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Paul H. Goodley walked into a drug store, felt a knife at his back and heard, "just keep walking."

Goodley pulled a .25-caliber automatic, whirled and shot his assailant five times, an accomplice once. The wounded men later were arrested and booked.

Goodley, 25, a physician and a reserve sheriff's deputy, wasn't satisfied with his performance Tuesday.

"Any time you put five slugs into somebody and he walks away, it's time to get a larger caliber weapon," he said of his pistol.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

IT'S NATURAL FOR A SECRETARY TO GROW FOND OF HER BOSS! TRUE OR FALSE?

Of course it is. As one experienced "office wife" puts it, "You get fond of him — almost in spite of yourself. At first, you're sort of a chore girl, but as you learn the job better, you're entrusted with responsibility and get to know more and more about his worries, his humiliations, the ways his hopes are dashed on the rocks of 'policy.'" It takes a mature girl to keep these protective feelings within bounds.

2. Should all high school students study the same subjects?

Yes — No —

No, and if your high school is a good one, they will not have to. One of the tasks of the school counselor is to help each child have the kind of educational experience that will be best for him. Some are better in academic and theoretical subjects. Others do best if there is some work with their hands. Some children have high intelligence, but, because they are "nervous," do not get along well in school. Some are baffled by studies that others can breeze through. Your school counselor is one of the most valuable persons on the staff.

Woody, Jonathan, Hilarious

BY TV SCOUT

8-9 Channel 5 — The Kraft Music Hall chose Woody Allen for its year-end review, coming up with its most sophisticated show of the year. After all, what other comedian can boast of having political pundit William Buckley Jr. on with him to take a backward glance and sideward swipe at 1967's people and events? Woody sets the mood in his opening monologue when he notes: "It's been a fascinating 12 months, or in the case of Eddie Fisher, a fascinating nine months." (C)

9-10 Channels 2-7 — The Jonathan Winters Show is the first of the new mid-season series making a somewhat inauspicious debut, mainly because all the parts of the show seem to be separate and distinct, without a quality of continuity that marks the successful variety series. Winters has a full roster of guests including Red Skelton, doing his famed drunk impression; Abby Dalton, a lovely mod housewife in a new mini-skirt facing the wrath of her mid-Victorian husband; Barbara Eden displaying both her unique beauty and singing style, especially appealing in a "Dr. Dolittle" medley and Ivan Dixon in a takeoff on "In The Heat of the Night" with Milton Berle getting in for three seconds. (C)

6:30-8 Channel 5 — Guest star Leslie Nielsen and series star James Drury play off each other perfectly in this episode of The Virginian. Leslie plays a smooth but shady western racketeer who literally owns his own town. (C)

7:30-8 Channels 2-7 — Granny uses her best backwoods wiles to solve an insoluble situation on The Beverly Hillbillies. She had been trying to get Ellie interested in marrying a handsome movie star (Larry Pennell) but switches her tactics to get the matinee idol interested in Mr. Drysdale's plain Jane. (C)

8-10 Channels 11-9 — We get a movie break from sea and surf for a wintry frolic on The Wednesday Night Movie's "Ski Party." Frankie Avalon, Deborah Walley and Dwayne Hickman star in this "flick," which is the term the younger set uses, and if you're not one of them, forget it. The two males star as athletes at a ski resort who can't seem to make their points with one particular young lady and are bound and determined to find out why. (C)

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — Oscar is convinced that Andrew is a crook on He and She and his conviction convinces Paula and Dick. There's a series of robberies near the couple's apartment followed by a wanted poster for a crook strangely resembling handyman Andy. (C)

9-10 Channel 5 — An excellent cast helps a good story become better on Run For Your Life with star Ben Gazzara playing part time lawyer and part time detective. (C)

Bob Denver and Phyllis Diller go in for rural hinks as co-stars in Universal's "Did You Hear the One About the Traveling Saleslady?" Also starring in the Technicolor comedy are Joe Flynn, Eileen Wesson and David Hartman.

This elegant and delightful food for either New Year's Day or a New Year Eve watch party features Vintage Coffee — a blend of muscatel wine and strong hot coffee — with interesting bite-sized canapés. There are smoked oysters on the crackers, Cheese and Ham Cubes, hot Shrimp Puffs, in the background.

Twin hams, each garnished differently for party effect, dramatize the above New Year's Eve buffet table. The secret of success in preparation is to baste both hams liberally with beer before cooking, letting the beer soak into the meat. The flavor of the ham will be enhanced, but the beer itself will not be detected.

Happy New Year Starters

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR
Lillian Mackesy

The sumptuous midnight spread . . . the New Year's ham . . . the taste of herring and many other traditional dishes stem from Old World superstitious beliefs. The fish served on New Year's Eve goes back to the days of the fisherfolk along the European coast, it foretells a successful season. Just as pork in one form or another means a "fat" and prosperous year ahead.

As a matter of fact, today we have 'piggy banks' which stem from the age-old custom of the New Year's ham signifying prosperity. The point was to set a bountiful table and partake of its good things just before the stroke of midnight and into the New Year. This timing was important to make the transition from the old year into the next with the "groaning board" an indication of plenty of food in the larder during the months to come.

Refreshments for New Year's Day entertaining comes from the early Dutch settlers for Americans and favors tiny delicacies just the right size to "pop" into the mouth with a hot, spirited beverage.

The beverage in the olden days could be spiced, hot cider or a more spirited drink for the burghers who preferred it that way. Vintage coffee, made with strong, hot coffee and muscatel wine makes an excellent party drink for an Open House. The handsome hors d'oeuvres that go with the drink are deceiving — they're easy to fix — Smoked Oyster canapés, Cheese-Ham Cubes, and Shrimp Puffs.

Serve the Vintage Coffee in those tiny cups — demitasse or brulot cups. It will be a surprise how well the wine and coffee blend to make a deliciously new way to toast the New Year.

The ham for the party or holiday meal can be a double one, each festooned a bit differently to give the table a gala air. For a medium-sized group, select three-pounders, for a smaller family or friend party there are the dainty two-pound hams. If the party is one of those huge family affairs with cousins by the dozens, choose two large (8- or 10-pound) canned hams. The dramatic punch to the ham is the use of beer before the hams are cooked, sparking up the natural ham flavor and not the beer taste.

Add to these ideas, the fresh lemon punch that uses a sugar-tea base (make it ahead and have plenty of this base ready in the refrigerator for refills) and a sparkling new version of Eggs Benedict for either an informal New Year's Eve treat or a New Year's Day brunch the next morning. Serve with egg nog for a delicious party special.

Punch, with or without a nip, is a welcomed drink with which to toast in the New Year when it's made of fresh lemon juice, pineapple juice, a touch of grenadine, sugar and strong hot tea. The sugar tea base can be made in quantity, then kept refrigerated until the toasting bowl needs refilling.

Any of these recipes are supposed to bring a HAPPY NEW YEAR — as far as tastes are concerned, it will.

VINTAGE COFFEE
3 cups strong hot coffee
¾ cup muscatel wine
6 teaspoons sugar
2 cinnamon sticks

Combine first three ingredients. Stir to dissolve sugar. Add cinnamon sticks and steep 15 minutes. Serve in six to eight demitasse cups with hors d'oeuvres.

SMOKED OYSTER CANAPES
Place a dab of chive cream cheese on each cracker, top with a smoked oyster.

CHEESE AND HAM CUBES

Slack square cut sliced American cheese and ham seven layers deep with mustard, mayonnaise or cream cheese between slices. Cut into cubes. Secure with picks.

SHRIMP PUFFS

2 cans (6½ oz. each) peeled, deveined shrimp
½ teaspoon onion powder
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup fine dry packaged bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped stuffed olives
2 teaspoons prepared horseradish.

Combine all ingredients; mix. Turn to Page 3, Col. 4

New Year's Recipe Sampler Adapted From Old Customs

The New Year holiday and its gaiety is as old as the race of man, or at least as old as any calendar reckoning he could create for himself.

The world around, this red-letter evening and day have been set aside for pageants and parades, dancing and singing, visiting and eating.

This recipe sampler, to make preparations for ringing out the old and ringing in the new much more rewarding, carries with it a wish for good luck.

KNACKWURSTERS

On New Year's Eve, Moravians among the Pennsylvania Dutch have a love feast of coffee and cake or buns.

For those who sit around your midnight table serve something with that Pennsylvania Dutch savor, Knackwursters.

To serve eight persons, do this ahead of time. Sauté two cups of chopped Bermuda onion in one-half cup butter in a skillet. Add one cup of water and eight Knackwurst sausages. Cover and simmer for 15 minutes. Remove the sausages. Refrigerate onion sauce and sausages. When time to eat, place Knackwurst on grill and brown on all sides. Heat onion sauce. Cut each Knackwurst in half, lengthwise, place in a split, warm sandwich bun along with one tablespoon onion sauce.

TART BEEF SANDWICHES
With the ringing of the bells at New Year's, ancient Scottish families hurried home. It was time for "first-footin'."

The table was set with bread and salt and all sat in silence waiting for the first guest. For luck, the "first-footer" had to be tall and dark. Legend had it that it was bad luck to admit a red-haired, flat-footed person as one's first guest.

Short or tall, dark- or red-headed, your guests will say they were lucky to be invited to your party and to eat Tart Beef Sandwiches.

For 12, butter 24 slices of rye bread. Arrange two to three slices of thinly-sliced corned beef on each of half the slices. Sprinkle lime juice over the corned beef, top with two thin slices of onion and a lettuce leaf. Top with a slice of buttered bread.

DANISH CUSTOM
An old Danish custom requires that broken crockery be saved all year and hurled against the doors of friends on New Year's Eve. The largest pile in a doorway indicates the most popular family in the neighborhood. Celebrators rush to that door and are always invited in for hot coffee and doughnuts.

We don't recommend the throwing of crockery at doors, but we do recommend that you break precedent and serve hot doughnuts on New Year's Eve. Here is a quick-and-easy way to prepare them, starting with baker's plain doughnuts.

PEANUT CHEESE CIRCLES

Slice four doughnuts in half, crosswise. Combine an eight-ounce package of cream cheese with two tablespoons milk. Add three tablespoons chopped peanuts and half-cup orange marmalade. Spread on cut sides of doughnuts. Toast on a cookie sheet in 400-degree oven (400 degrees F.) for five minutes. Serve hot.

TUPPENCE OR A PIE

Wassail is an ancient holiday custom — from Waes Hael, the Anglo-Saxon toast, "Be Hearty." English children, carrying the green wreathed wassail bowl through the streets and serenading the man of the house, would receive a gift of either tuppence or a pie.

Do a turnabout on the old English custom and bring a hot mince pie to your host's door on New Year's Day. Don't forget to bring along a topping for it, too. Here are two recipes for toppings which are elegant over hot mince pie.

GINGERED SOUR CREAM TOPPING

When ready to serve the hot mince pie, spread one cup prepared sour cream over the top. Sprinkle the sour cream with two tablespoons each of chopped walnuts and finely-chopped, candied ginger.

APRICOT-BRANDY SAUCE

Place one-fourth cup sugar, one-third cup cold water and one and one-half teaspoons cornstarch in a saucepan. Stir well. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is clear. Press one-half cup drained canned apricots through a sieve; add to cornstarch mixture. Keep warm. Just before serving, stir in two tablespoons brandy. Spoon warm sauce over wedges of hot mince pie.

Brownies Take Party to Indians

Excited Appleton Brownies from nine Scout troops piled into 15 cars Saturday, tucked themselves among gifts of food, candy, toys and clothing and headed north for a Christmas party with 50 Indian children at St. Anthony Mission, Neopit.

Most carefully packed was a pinata filled with candy, nuts and balloons and a mitten tree. Troop 190, Franklin School, decorated the mitten tree and Troop 203, Franklin, the pinata.

Troops Cooperate
Seven other school troops which helped in the project were Jackson 242; Highlands 5; St Bernadette 304; Lincoln

67; St. Mary 153; Jefferson 21, and Franklin 224.

Entertainment in the St. Anthony gym included games, Christmas carols and a treat of cookies and punch. But the climax came when 50 children squealed and scrambled for the deluge of goodies when the colorful, giant pinata was broken.

Joy That Comes From Giving was learned by 50 Appleton Brownie Scouts from nine troops, who shared a party and gifts with 50 Indian children at Neopit Saturday. The mitten tree, above, decorated by Franklin School troop 190, had to be disassembled to be transported. Hanging mittens are Mary Wiesen-berg, Tami Westphal, Susan Hooyman and Tracy

Robertson. Carried by station wagon was the pinata, full of candy, nuts and balloons. Packing it in, at left, are Becky Wolfram, Rori Meyer and Holly Neuman, all of troop 203; Ann Ford, 67, and in the background, Mrs. Gerald Wolfram and Mrs. David Meyer, co-leaders of troop 203. Mrs. Ronald Williams is leader of troop 190. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Colorful Linens Available At Traditional 'White Sale'

It's that time of the year when much will be written about white sales.

Of course, in line with today's trend color has become so "big" in fashion and home decorations that the term "white sale" is more traditional than descriptive.

Why are white sales held in January? Buyers of bedding and related household goods say that originally they were conceived to stimulate traffic in the stores following the extensive Christmas gift-buying spree. The are also related to Christmas in the sense that many people receive cash gifts that they would like to use for practical purposes. That makes January a good month for thrifty shoppers seeking special values.

The "big five" in the white goods items are pillow cases, flat and fitted sheet for twin beds, flat and fitted sheets for double beds. Other items generally sale-priced are blankets, spreads, pillows, and towels.

Related Items

Think of the advantages a bride of today has! Sheets and pillow cases and other related items are so imaginative that no matter what her taste is she can find the most delicate flower motif or rousing stripes. Just a few years ago it would have been necessary to place a special order.

Towels and bed linens can be color-coordinated to fit in with the existing color scheme in the home.

Harry James to Marry Today

RENO, Nev. (AP) — After their scheduled wedding today, bandleader Harry James says, he and the red-haired Joan Boyd won't have time for a honeymoon.

A reception at 2 a.m. Thursday was planned at the Reno Club where James is appearing. The couple took out a license Saturday. The marriage will be the third for James, 51, a former husband of actress Betty Grable. The 27-year-old Miss Boyd listed an annulment in Los Angeles in 1962.

character clues

His hindsight is much better than his foresight! No matter what he said originally, and whether he was right or wrong, he will bolster his ego with "I told you so!"

May Wedding Planned by Engaged Pair

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hanselman, 277 Gardners Row, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to Glenn Biedermann, 840½ Appleton St., Menasha. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Biedermann, 409 First St., Menasha.

Miss Hanselman is employed by Aid Association for Lutherans. Her fiancé is with Geo. Banta Co. Inc., Menasha. The couple plans a May 4 wedding.

Her husband of actress Betty Grable. The 27-year-old Miss Boyd listed an annulment in Los Angeles in 1962.

Tell Troth of Miss Considine

BLACK CREEK — Mr. and Mrs. D. Considine, route 1, Black Creek, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mildred Alice, to Ronald D. Stambaugh. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Stambaugh Jr.

Miss Considine is a student at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. Her fiancé, who is also a student at the University, is a member of Delta Epsilon and Phi Eta Sigma honor fraternities.

The couple plans a June 22 wedding.

Turkeys, Fresh Fruits and vegetables, cranberries and a few extra holiday treats went into baskets packed for needy veterans at the American Legion Clubhouse Saturday morning. Members of one working team were Mrs. Fred Gehrke, child welfare chairman; Sheldon Baetz, Legion member, and Mrs. Harry Muench Jr., assistant chairman of rehabilitation. Baskets were delivered Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Hints and Happenings

Bad Weather Calls For Good Driving

If there was one rule during bad weather days of early automotive history it was this: When it rained or snowed you didn't take the car out. Because tires of those days had no treads and because most drivers knew virtually nothing about the workings of their "horseless carriages," it was all too easy to get stuck in a ditch, deep in mud or snow.

Today, many motorists are still figuratively driving in the era of the Model "T." Misconceptions about bad weather driving are popular because some drivers haven't kept up with the wide range of available automobile accessories and modern rules for defensive driving in the snow or rain.

For instance, it may surprise you to know that instead of dreading rain, many professional drivers welcome it. They believe it breaks the monotony of driving on a dry, traffic-jammed highway. However, they realize a rainy driving situation calls for extra caution. As soon as rain starts falling, you should switch on your lights. Because rain and mud spatters tend to camouflage cars, your auto may be almost invisible unless other drivers see your lights.

No Brakes

In all kinds of bad weather, you should drive as if you had no brakes. Sudden braking in rain or snow will cause skids — so use your brakes sparingly. If you should go into a skid, do more than follow the standard advice of trying to steer into it. Pump the brakes in the following way: Stab the brakes for a split second, then stab the brakes again. Keep following this stab and release pattern and you'll be able to control the car a little better each time the brakes are released. And you'll stop sooner and more safely.

Safe tires are the most important accessories you can have for bad weather driving. According to the National Tire Dealers and Retreaders Association, retreaded snow tires are the most economical and safe choice. Because each tire is carefully inspected before it's retreaded there's little chance of failure. And when the new treads are put on, you're sure of enough traction for bad and good weather driving.

Studded Tires

Studded tires are another choice for winter driving. One of the most recent developments, these tires have tiny metal studs inserted into the treads to help them grip icy and snow-covered roads. Recent studies have proven that with studded tires, a driver's stopping distance on glare ice can be improved as much as 60 per cent. Studded tires are accepted in most of the United States as a safety feature with only one snow tire state, Virginia, having legislation against it. With the wealth of information proving the worth of studded tires, several states have recently revised their laws.

Before you choose your winter tires, find out which ones are suitable for your car and your driving habits. Consult your local independent tire dealer, for an expert opinion. And remember, that once you have your tires, you should rotate them every 5,000 miles for even wear.

For safety's sake, you should brush up your automotive know-how before the first snow falls. If you're not sure of what to do in bad weather situations, here's a quickie quiz. Give yourself 10 points for each correct answer.

Driver's Test

1. If you're going 20 m.p.h. on glare ice, what's your stopping distance? (a) 151 feet (b) 161 feet (c) 171 feet.

2. When is driving in the rain most critical? (a) during the first ½ hour (b) after the first ½ hour (c) after the rain is over.

3. What is best for driving out of a snow bank? (a) keeping the car in low gear (b) rocking fore and back to get traction (c) melting snow by spinning tires.

4. When is it more advisable to ride on a flat than to stop? (a) when it's raining (b) when the tire's been punctured by a nail (c) when there's no escape shoulder on a high-speed highway.

5. What's the best way of checking tire treads yourself? (a) with a penny (b) with a magnifying glass (c) with a tape measure.

6. If the edges are feathered on the side of each tread on your tires (a) your air pressure is too high (b) your air pressure is too low (c) front wheels may be out of alignment.

7. Driving conditions are most hazardous on wet or icy roads at (a) zero degrees (b) 32 degrees (c) 38 degrees.

Keep a Few of Children's Christmas Toys in Reserve

It's more important that your child have a variety of different types of toys rather than great numbers of playthings.

After the Holidays gather up the gift toys to store away. Choose a few to leave out and then switch them for others later.

Select toys from each of the following four groups to more adequately satisfy your child's growing interests.

First, choose from toys for active, physical play such as balls, tricycles, gym equipment and wagons. These play tools will aid your child's physical development.

Learning Toys
Second, get out a manipulative, constructive or creative plaything to aid his learning process. Blocks, construction toys, clay, drawing and painting equipment are typical aids to this type of play. They give a child opportunity for expressing ideas, developing initiative and resourcefulness.

Third, select some toys that stimulate imitative, imaginative and dramatic play. Dolls, housekeeping equipment, farm equipment, animals, space stations, race-cars and dress-up costumes are typical toys that develop your child's imagination and dramatic play. He learns to understand the world around him through imitating and dramatizing adult activities.

Fourth, social play where several children can take part is helpful to your child's development. Such playthings as doll equipment, games, blocks, or a wagon are more usable and more fun when two or more children play together.

By sharing play activities, children learn fair play, good sportsmanship, how to get along with each other, and how to think quickly and accurately.

A well-chosen toy may fall into more than one of these groups, giving your child a variety of play experiences.

Kathleen Betteres

Engagement Told

KAUKAUNA — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Betteres, 301 E. Seventh St., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Robert J. Krahn. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Krahn, route 1, Seymour.

Miss Betteres is a student at Appleton Vocational and Adult School and is employed at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton. Her fiancé is with Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co.

A July 6 wedding is planned.

After-Holiday Problem: Heap of Soiled Laundry

It's the aftermath of the holidays that pains . . . particularly the laundry. You're faced with a backlog. Stacked up is all the regular wash you didn't have time to do plus towels, sheets and pillow cases from overnight guests. There'll be dish towels galore and all your best tablecloths, mats and napkins.

A good place to launch Operation Laundry is with a check of your table linens in search of stains, inevitable mementos of holiday meals. Since each item is apt to sport not just one stain but an assortment . . . a dab of gravy, a splatter of cranberry sauce, a splash of coffee . . . it's hardly practical to treat each one individually according to the prescribed stain chart antidote. It's easier on you, and safer on your good linens to resort instead to the soak. Bundle everything into a sinkful of warm water laced with five or six tablespoons of sal soda concentrated and let sit until water cools off. If stains looked particularly invincible, repeat the process. Remember that prolonged soaking in cold water does nothing for a stain. It just lets loosened soil re-establish itself.

Laundry Project

When it comes to the laundry project don't be tempted to overload the washer just to conserve on a limited supply of hot water. Better for the sake of results to turn wash day into a two-day event. One place where you can honestly conserve and come up with a brighter than ever wash is with your laundry additives . . . detergent, bleach, fabric softener and the like . . . a welcome savings to the budget bowed by Christmas gift buying. Three tablespoons of sal soda concentrated added to the wash water takes over the duties of all but your detergent, of which you'll use less since sal softens the water. Give table linens the same treatment once they're through with their soak. All but the most persistent stains will vanish completely, and even these should also disappear with one more run through the washer.

orange and lemon on top for garnish. Punch cups can be individually garnished with unpeeled orange wedges and fresh strawberries on wooden picks. Recipe makes 24 punch cup servings.

Several batches of the base in the seven and one-half cup quantity can be prepared in advance and refrigerated. At serving time, add extra ingredients and if both types are used, garnish differently.

GALA GLAZED HAMS

2 canned hams,
3 pounds each
2 cans (12-oz. each) beer
Pineapple slices
Maraschino cherries
Mandarin orange sections
Ripe olives, pitted and halved
½ cup orange marmalade

Pour beer over hams and let stand at room temperature for several hours. Frequently spoon beer over hams if tops are not covered with beer marinade.

To cook, remove hams from beer. Place on rack in a shallow roasting pan and bake at 350 degrees for one hour, basting occasionally with reserved marinade. Remove hams from oven.

Drain all fruits. Decorate top of one ham with pineapple slices and maraschino cherries.

Decorate top of second ham with alternating rows of Mandarin orange sections and ripe olive halves.

Beat orange marmalade until smooth and light, and spoon evenly over the fruits on top of each ham. Return to oven and bake an additional 15 minutes or until glaze has melted and dripped down sides of hams. Recipe makes 12 generous servings.

EGGS BENEDICT ALA 1968

1 quart prepared egg nog
4 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup water
½ cup lemon juice
Dash Tabasco
½ teaspoon seasoned pepper
4 eggs, hard-cooked, sieved
16 slices cooked ham, cut ¼ inch thick

2 tablespoons butter
16 (3-inch) rounds of toast or rusk
16 poached eggs
Parsley

Gently heat egg nog. Blend cornstarch, water and lemon juice until smooth; use a wire whisk to stir into heated egg nog. Add seasonings and continue to stir over low heat until nicely thickened.

Cut 16 three-inch rounds from ham slices and reserve. Finely chop or mince enough ham trimmings to make one cup; parsley and slivers of ham.

stir into sauce. Stir in sieved eggs. Keep sauce hot. Lightly saute the ham rounds in melted butter, then place each on a toast round. Top ham with poached egg and spoon sauce over all. Garnish with parsley and slivers of ham.

For those who prefer a quiet, go-to-bed-early New Year's Eve, yet want to crown the holiday week with a special entertainment, consider a New Year's morning brunch. Built around a buffet and punch bowl, this can be a charming party. With the traditional eggnog in a gleaming punch bowl, serve Eggs Benedict 1968, thin slices of fruit cake, potato and egg salad, and coffee. For a spirited egg nog, serve with one-half cup brandy plus one-half cup rum for each quart, and thickened with two egg whites beaten with one teaspoon sugar and topped with nutmeg.

Your Problems

Husband's Chronic Cynicism, Pessimistic Views Upset Wife

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Fritz is a good provider and has high morals. When I look around and see what some of my friends and relatives put up with from their husbands, I feel guilty about complaining but here goes.

The problem is that Fritz is a chronic knacker. I don't mind for myself because after 20 years I am accustomed to it, but I'm afraid his negative attitude is bad for our children. He knocks the school system, the city officials, the church, the neighbors, the federal government, the A.M.A., the U.S.O., the A.D.A. and the D.A.R. He is neither reactionary nor liberal. He is simply against everything.

When we sit down to dinner

it's one destructive statement after another. I hate to say to the children, "Don't listen to your father." But I am deeply tive side, the children are bound to grow up cynical and pessimistic.

Don't argue with your husband, change the subject. Turn the conversation to something you want the kids to be for. Praise the people who are doing the constructive things in the world. Talk about courage and justice and honesty. Kids need something to look up to more than they need something to look down on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can two women get married? I don't wish to go into detail as to the reason I am asking this question. You may assume it is either a gag (like to win a bet) or perhaps the women are lesbians and wish to live together as "man" and "wife." What

I need to know is would a marriage between two people of the same sex be considered legal.

Please don't toss this in the circular file. I am serious. — G.C.N.Y.

Dear G.C.N.Y.: If you know a couple of women who want to get married, tell them O.K., but not to each other. The word marriage means the state of being wedded to a person of the opposite sex.

In Illinois, failure to consummate a marriage in the sexual sense is grounds for annulment. Since it is understood that marriage guarantees the privileges of a heterosexual relationship, two members of the same sex could not possibly be considered suitable marriage partners.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was fascinated by the letter in your column from the mother whose son was going to Vietnam. She was annoyed with the relatives who came to his going-away party because not one brought a present.

Does this mother believe that going to war is something to celebrate? Does she think it is like going away to college, or being married? Perhaps the relatives understand the grim realities of the situation and this is why they did not come laden with gifts. Please tell her so. — No Hawk

Dear No: I did not feel (as the mother did) that the guests were clods because they did not bring gifts. Nor do I agree with you that gift-giving under these circumstances would be inappropriate. A gift need not be a memento of a celebration. It could be a thoughtful token or a little remembrance which might be useful.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1967)

Set Room and Board Rate After Frank Appraisal

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Small money problems can do to a family what a few grains of sand do to machinery. Relationships that weather a major catastrophe can be ripped to shreds over a ten dollar bill. The mischief-maker that rates top billing in hundreds of households is the price of room and board.

household who must set the price of room and board usually shies away from a frank discussion of what's involved. And yet, unless it's all threshed out in the beginning, resentment sets in. Relationships turn sour, seemingly from other causes — but track it down and you find that money is the real cause of the friction.

No Uniform Rule

What are the ground rules for setting a price for food and shelter? Actually, no one generalizes with ality fits all situations. One daughter and baby for room and board while her husband is overseas with the Armed Forces? Another says: "An elderly relative wants to come to live with us and is well able financially to pay for room and board. We are bewildered as to how much we should ask." The one practical approach is to work backwards. Start by establishing how much one-fourth of the boarder's income amounts to (A sum equal to one-fourth or one-third of the individual's net income is a time-honored rule of thumb for room and board and sometimes works out quite satisfactorily.) Then estimate how much an extra person at the dinner table will add to your grocery bill.

Consider Expenses

Consider, too, whether a young person must buy a car for business reasons, or has insurance premiums to keep up. Figure the additional cost that will show up on utility bills. If an elderly relative's pension is small, but he has substantial savings or investment income, these should be evaluated in setting a price. And will the boarder perform any services that you would otherwise have to pay for — such as baby-sitting? When you take a good look at all the pieces of the puzzle — your needs and the boarder's needs and his ability to pay — only then can you decide what amount makes sense.

Sometimes you must figure realistically what it would cost you to help support a family member under another roof, if you don't take him into your home. This can be a determining factor establishing a "fair price."

Above all, don't be vague with your boarder. Start the negotiations with a list of estimated expenses in hand — and request

Don't Give Partner An Excuse

"parted." Quite right, of course. South leads the king of diamonds. "A trick saved is a trick earned," a certain kind of partner hastens to tell you one. "Early to bid and early to pass shows, if a player really has class," he intones. Today's hand brought forth another appropriate bridge proverb. South drew two rounds of leading the fourth round of trumps and tried the heart hearts. West refused the first heart but took the second and led back a third heart. South thereupon led the ace of hearts, discarding the deuce of diamonds from dummy. When declarer next led the ten of diamonds, West was alert enough to step up with the ace ten. Dummy wins with the queen of diamonds, and South, crashing the queen and gets to his hand with a trump to cash the ace of hearts. Now is Dummy sadly announced: "A fool and his discard are soon deuce of diamonds."

Your Money's Worth

A Working Wife Tells About Discrimination

BY SYLVIA PORTER

As of Jan. 1, I'll be paying the new maximum Social Security tax of $343.20. This is not a shock to me. For the 30 years of my entire working life, since 1937, I have always been in an earning bracket where I have paid the maximum annual Social Security tax to finance pension benefits going to others. Yet, if I ever retire, I will be eligible to receive only a few more dollars each month in retirement benefits than my neighbor who has never held a paying job in her life and who has never contributed one cent to the Social Security system. Despite the fact that my neighbor has never worked for pay and never contributed, she will be automatically eligible for wife's benefits when her husband retires. Solely because she exists as a wife, she will get an amount equal to about one-half her husband's benefits.

If I stay alive, I also will be automatically entitled to a wife's benefit when my husband retires — but I won't get it if I claim any benefits on the basis of the thousands of dollars in Social Security taxes I have contributed on my own.

Only The Difference

If you are among America's 15,200,000 working wives, the story is the same for you. The only return in future Social Security retirement benefits you'll get from the taxes you are now paying will be the difference between the benefits you could expect as a dependent wife and the amount of your own benefit, based on your own contributions to the system.

Over a working lifetime, your "wasted" contributions easily can amount to thousands of dollars.

Of course, I know the explanation for this obvious inequity. It is simply that when the original Social Security law was written back in the 1930s, the vast majority of wives were non-working wives and totally dependent on their husbands' earnings — and thus, also retirement benefits — for economic survival. The basic principle was, and it remains, that the husband is the key breadwinner of the family. The "supplement" for his non-working wife was put into the law to keep millions of retired married couples off the welfare rolls. The working wife was ignored because she just wasn't conspicuous enough.

Times Have Changed

But 1967 is not 1937! The working wife now represents 57 per cent of the female labor force. The married woman now outnumbers her single sisters in the work force by 2½ to 1. The wife who works is contributing billions of dollars in Social Security taxes to finance the benefits of someone else. But she must forfeit one of her roles when benefits come.

What could be acceptable solutions? For instance, I asked the Social Security Administration in Washington, "what about paying a working wife her own full Social Security retirement benefit apart from her husband's benefit with its automatic share for his wife?" The answer was: "the cost of this would be equal to the cost of a 10 per cent across-the-board benefit increase for all beneficiaries. It would boost the tax burden on all workers. Among those paying higher Social Security taxes would be the single working woman who would receive no increase in benefits."

Any Compromises?

To my question "what about requiring the married man with a non-working wife to pay higher Social Security taxes?", the answer was: "this would be an accounting nightmare because of the possibilities of divorce, death of the wife before her husband retires or a decision by the wife to get a job."

To my question "aren't there

Waupaca Youth Hurt, Car Demolished in Accident at King

WAUPACA — Gary A. Dutmers, 17, route 1, suffered a nose injury at 9:15 a.m. Tuesday when his car ran off State 22 in King.

County police said Dutmers was headed north on State 22 when a car driven by Earl J. Adams, route 2, which had been parked on the left side of the road, pulled out into Dutmers' lane of traffic. The youth swung his car to the right in an attempt to miss the Adams car and struck a tree.

Dutmers' 1959 model car was demolished.

Theft of Paintings No More a Joke

SOCORRO, N.M. (AP) — Members of the Art League in Socorro used to joke that they'd be flattered if anyone liked their paintings well enough to steal them.

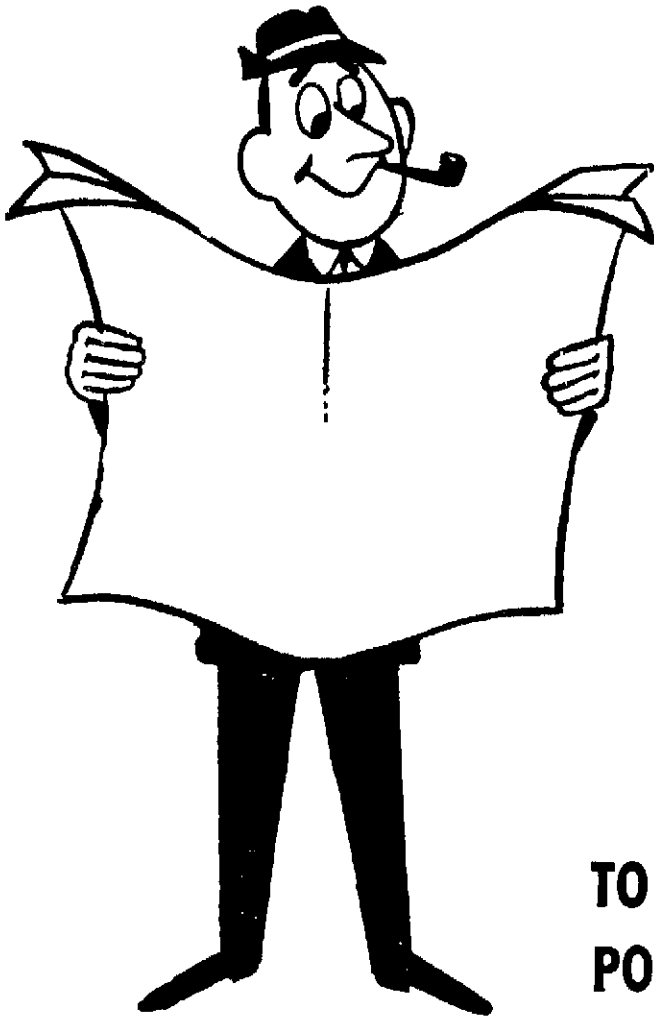

League members now are looking for a new standing joke and two small oils painted by Gladys Newsome. A spokesman said the two paintings disappeared recently while on display at the Socorro Public Library.

Girl Veers Over Center Line, Runs Into Brother

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — Janet Tibbs, 18, ran into her brother Tuesday on her way to work.

Janet was driving on Illinois 121 west of Lincoln when, authorities said, her car veered over the center line and side-swiped an oncoming car, driven by Gary Tibbs, 21.

Neither Janet nor Gary, who live in rural New Holland, was injured. She was charged with improper use of a lane.

North Vietnamese Troops at Borders Of Thailand, Laos

Pentagon Not Alarmed by Threat Of Communist Invasion Attempts

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer
BANGKOK (AP) — Thailand's army commander said today three Communist battalions that include North Vietnamese are poised on Thailand's northern border and one is trying to cross. In neighboring Laos, the government declared it faced a general North Vietnamese offensive.

The battalion trying to cross into Thailand totals some 600 men and includes Thai insurgents drilled in North Vietnam, men of the Communist Pathet Lao movement in Laos and Meo tribesmen, said Gen. Praphas harasathien, who is deputy premier as well as commander in chief of the army.

To check the threat, Praphas said, helicopters whirled into an province carrying government troops from Chiangrai, in northern Thailand and units from the 3rd Army Headquarters. The area where Thai troops and the Communists are reported facing each other is 350 miles northeast of Bangkok.

Offensive Confirmed
The Laotian Defense Ministry said in a communique late yesterday that "reports arriving from various fronts confirm a general North Vietnamese offensive."

It reported attacks over the weekend on government army posts at Nam Bac in Luang Prabang province, and at Phame and on the outskirts of Nong Qualao, both in Savannakhet province, in southeast Laos.

"Our forces have been able to contain all these attacks," the communique said.

The communique also said that two North Vietnamese battalions had been ordered to move from Mahaxay toward Nakhek, a town on the Mekong river opposite Nakorn Phanom, Communist hotbed in northern Thailand.

Budget Planning to Occupy President at Texas Ranch

SAN ANTONIO Tex. (AP) — President Johnson moved his office to his beloved Texas hill country ranch and settled down today for a year-end stay that aides expected to be "a fairly busy time."

The President announced he has invited Israel's Prime Minister Levi Eshkol for a private and informal ranch visit Jan. 7 and 8.

And his press secretary, George Christian, said the President could be expected to stay in Texas at least through that time.

Bill signing and budget business are prime on the President's agenda, with budget director Charles Schultze, fiscal experts and some Cabinet members coming to the ranch to confer, starting in the next day or so.

Johnson also will be drafting his State of the Union message, presented annually to the reconvening Congress. Congress is due back Jan. 15.

Family at Ranch
It was to be a combination of work and relaxation for the nation's chief executive, who flew to Texas Tuesday afternoon after spending his first Christmas with his family in the White House.

The President's wife, Lady Bird, daughter, Luci, and her husband, Patrick J. Nugent, and the presidential grandson, baby Lyn, are at the ranch, too, along with three presidential dogs—two beagles and the President's favorite mongrel, Yuki.

Johnson arrived at Randolph Air Force Base here aboard his big jet plane dressed for relaxation in a brown sports jacket, tan shirt, tan slacks, brown loafers and wearing sunglasses in the bright Texas afternoon. He waved to the crowd of several hundred who gathered at the airport fence, but did not make his usual gesture of shaking hands.

Johnston Interviewed
The request for the FCC to order the three major networks to provide equal time came last week after Johnson appeared in an hour-long interview program in prime time. In the course of the interview, Johnson suggested McCarthy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., were working together to gain the nomination—a charge both senators have persistently denied.

In other political developments:

—Comedian Dick Gregory said he hopes to organize demonstrations massive enough to block the 1968 Democratic National Convention scheduled for Chicago the week of Aug. 25.

Gregory told newsmen in Chicago the Democratic Party insulted Negroes by choosing the city as a convention site because Chicago "has not cleaned up its racial problems. They just use police force."

—The New York Times reported that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has eliminated George Romney as a serious contender for the GOP presidential nomination on grounds the Michigan governor "has been on so many sides of so many questions that one begins to wonder just where he does stand."

The former Republican chief executive's feelings about Romney, an announced candidate for the nomination, were made to his golfing companions in Southern California, where he spends the winter, the Times said.

In Saigon, where he was winding up an inspection visit to South Vietnam, Romney was asked by newsmen about the remark attributed to Eisenhower.

"I'd prefer to rely on what Gen. Eisenhower wrote me before I left," he said. "In essence, he was pleased that I had announced as a candidate and he was also pleased that the Republicans would have an opportunity to choose" from among several candidates.

$3,200 Found at Dump
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A search through the garbage at the Raleigh city dump Tuesday was successful when a bag containing $3,200 was found. The money was three days of receipts from a newsstand at the city bus terminal and had been thrown into a garbage can by mistake.

biles and the 10 per cent excise tax on telephone service.

The present Social Security tax rate of 4.4 per cent on the first $6,600 income means a total payment of no more than $290.40 for both the employee and his employer.

It would have remained unchanged next year had Congress not approved earlier this month an increase in both benefits and the tax schedule. The maximum payment next year will now be $343.20.

This is now scheduled to rise to a maximum $460.20 by 1987 when the tax rate will be 5.9 per cent on both employee and employer.

Payment Increase
Although the Social Security tax rate won't increase for 1968, the amount of salary on which it is levied will—from $6,600 to $7,800. This will mean an additional tax of $52.80 for a person earning $7,800 or more during the year.

President Johnson has not yet signed the Social Security bill but is expected to do so shortly.

Increased Social Security taxes and repeal of the Federal stamp tax on real estate are the only two changes in the tax law which take effect Jan. 1.

But when Congress returns next month, the House Ways and Means Committee is again scheduled to take up President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes and Treasury officials hope for speedy passage.

Delay Reductions
In addition to higher income taxes, that package also would postpone drops scheduled for April 1 in the 7 per cent manufacturers' excise tax on automo-

Wallace Almost Sure to Win Entry Into California Primary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama appears to have won his bid to qualify for California's 1968 presidential ballot.

Wallace, whose drive to get the 66,059 California registrants needed to qualify his American Independent Party was pronounced almost certain to fail by state election officials just two weeks ago, already has better than 77 per cent of that total in just nine counties.

H. P. Sullivan, assistant secretary of state, said Tuesday a certified total of 51,206 Californians have registered to date as American Independents in the state's nine major counties.

With Jan. 2 the deadline for registrations, said Sullivan, "it looks unofficially like he will make it."

FCC Assailed
Another 1968 candidate Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, meanwhile called contemptuous a federal agency's handling of his request for equal television and radio time to answer statements by President Johnson.

McCarthy, a Minnesota Democrat who says he'll challenge Johnson in several 1968 primary elections, wrote to Chairman Rosel H. Hyde of the Federal Communications Commission:

"I ask you for an explanation of this contemptuous handling of a serious matter that is now before the commission of which you are chairman."

McCarthy said the only notice he received from the FCC's decision came in reprints of the agency's public notices on its policies on political broadcasts and equal time, mailed by the FCC to Blair Clark, the senator's campaign manager.

Social Security Tax Addition Starts Jan. 1
Payments Due on $7,800; Real Estate Stamp Eliminated

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Year's day will bring both good and bad news for the American taxpayer. One tax will be erased from the government's books on Jan. 1 while another will be increased for many persons.

Higher Social Security taxes to be paid during 1968 will more than offset the repeal of the federal stamp tax on real estate sales which was voted in 1965 but doesn't take effect until next week.

That tax amounts to 55 cents for each $500 or fraction, of a real estate sale and means between $60 million and $70 million each year to the Treasury Department. It is one of the fees collected from the home-buyer when he signs his settlement papers.

Silent Heart Attacks Might be Dangerous

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a friend who said there is such a thing as silent heart attacks. I never heard of this before. Are they dangerous? What are the symptoms? — A.G.

"Silent" heart attacks are attacks which are not recognized at the time because the symptoms were not noticed; were not recognized; or were ignored.

You have heard, I presume, of people who thought they had severe "indigestion" which proved to be a heart attack. There can be all degrees of heart attacks, from very mild to very severe. The "silent" attacks are the small ones. Dangerous? The best answer I can give is that any heart attack automatically means some damage to the heart. A person can survive a considerable number of small attacks, but in time the accumulated damage may reach serious proportions. These "silent" attacks are often discovered well after the attack when an electrocardiogram shows changes consistent with coronary heart disease.

Dear Dr. Molner: I sent for your booklet, "Tips on How to Stop Smoking," which I found helpful. I haven't smoked for eight weeks now but have an incessant feeling for oral stimulation. I am chewing gum or anything chewable in sight. Can you give me any hints on how to do away with this feeling? — Mrs. V. I.

You have done well, but your problem now is one which does bother some people. Remember that having something in the mouth becomes a habit, too, just like the actual smoking, and it takes time to break the habit. Fortunately there is no addiction involved — it's sheer habit, and will fade in time. (Readers wishing "Tips on How to Stop Smoking" can obtain it by sending 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner, in care of The Post-Crescent.)

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently my bowel movements have been very difficult because of being packed in the lower bowel. What could I do in such a situation? — Mrs. H. P.

You do not mention your age, but sometimes a relaxation of the lower bowel structures (called a rectocele) can be a factor. The use of a stool softener may help, but in any event you should be examined to make sure that no obstruction exists. Your physician undoubtedly will have other suggestions, depending on his findings.

Dear Dr. Molner: One of your readers, Mrs. E. T., wrote that she drank two teaspoons of vinegar in water twice a day. You answered in part, "This cider vinegar nonsense has caused no end of trouble." What trouble could cider vinegar cause? It is used daily on salads and other foods by thousands of people. Is there a difference in vinegar if consumed in water, on a salad, or in cooking? — Mrs. J. M.

I said the nonsense, not the vinegar, caused trouble, and the trouble is that it has been urged for use as a medicine, not a condiment.

The extra acid could well bother some people with gastritis, ulcers or other conditions requiring a bland diet, but the big trouble is in delay in giving effective treatment to people who decide to give folk lore a try first, and expect vinegar to be an effective treatment for almost any ailment you might think of.

For the average person, I have no objection whatever to vinegar in salads or cooking. I am very much disturbed at the number who think it has medicinal values.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Dr. Molner: One of your readers, Mrs. E. T., wrote that she drank two teaspoons of vinegar in water twice a day. You answered in part, "This cider vinegar nonsense has caused no end of trouble." What trouble could cider vinegar cause? It is used daily on salads and other foods by thousands of people. Is there a difference in vinegar if consumed in water, on a salad, or in cooking? — Mrs. J. M.

I said the nonsense, not the vinegar, caused trouble, and the trouble is that it has been urged for use as a medicine, not a condiment.

The extra acid could well bother some people with gastritis, ulcers or other conditions requiring a bland diet, but the big trouble is in delay in giving effective treatment to people who decide to give folk lore a try first, and expect vinegar to be an effective treatment for almost any ailment you might think of.

For the average person, I have no objection whatever to vinegar in salads or cooking. I am very much disturbed at the number who think it has medicinal values.

Furniture Firm With Stevens Point Plant Sold to Simmons Co.

STEVENS POINT (AP)—Sale of the Lullabye Furniture Corp., which employs about 200 persons at Stevens Point and another 50 at a plant in Toccoa, Ga., to the Simmons Co. of New York City in an outright cash deal was announced Tuesday in a joint statement by the two firms.

Simmons said that Lullabye, a manufacturer of juvenile furniture, would continue operations with substantially the same personnel.

SPENCER, Wis. (AP)—Arthur A. Krohn, 50, operator of the Spencer hotel and bar, was shot to death on Tuesday when he was hit by a slug from a 12-gauge shotgun fired at 10-foot range as he walked down a hallway in the hotel.

Marathon County Dist. Atty. Daniel LaRocque issued a warrant charging Leo J. Smolinski, 69-year-old retired farmer who lived at the hotel, with first degree murder in the shooting.

Krohn had closed his bar about 8 p.m. Monday and with his wife had gone to another bar in Spencer. According to the district attorney, an argument broke out there and the operator of the bar asked Smolinski to leave.

Deputy Sgt. Walter Wolf related the following sequence of events which he said next occurred:

Krohn returned to his bar about 12:45 a.m. and heard a door jam, narrowly missing a witness.

County Wage Pact Approved By Committee

Adjustments Made In Vacations, Longevity Plan

Wage agreements have been reached with all bargaining units representing Outagamie County employes except one, Supv. Marvin Babbitt. Seymour, head of the county's negotiating committee, told the executive committee today.

Approval of the contracts will be recommended by the committee to the county board. The agreements already have been ratified by union members.

Salary increases granted include 15-cents per hour across the board increase for all hourly employes in the highway department and $28 per month for salaried employes. In addition, highway employes will be paid time-and-a-half in addition to their regular pay when they work on a normal paid holiday.

Vacations Altered
Four weeks vacation will be granted after 20 years instead of the present 25 years and the top step in longevity will come after nine years of employment.

The work week was standardized at a nine-hour, five-day week the year around. Present work week schedule is nine hours on a five-day week April 1 through Nov. 30 and eight hours with five hours on Saturday Dec. 1 through March 31.

Hourly employes at the county institutions will receive a 12-cent per hour across the board increase with holiday and longevity provisions the same as the highway department. Hourly Courthouse Employees Association members will receive a 15-

Extension Requested For Shoreline Zoning

The Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission will ask the state this week for an extension on the Jan. 2 deadline for compliance with the state water quality law.

William Morris, commission executive director, indicated today he would write Freeman Holmer, State Department of Natural Resources administrator, requesting the additional time for the nine regional planning commission county members.

Holmer told the executive director in a recent telephone conversation that it is doubtful whether a date later than April 1, 1967 would be allowed.

Morris reported the administrator said that if counties showed an "intent to comply with the law within a reasonable period" and made a formal request for an extension, his department would give it consideration.

Morris said he hoped his request would be sufficient to gain the extension for the counties for which the regional planning commission is providing guidelines for meeting state standards. He did not know whether individual counties would also request extensions.

Morris did not expect an answer from Holmer until next week.

The request, according to Morris, would present a detailed report on the progress of the counties under the guidance of the regional planners and a tentative timetable for completion of the requirements.

$372,000 Higher in Appleton

Mailing Expense to Soar

Special to The Post-Crescent

NEW YORK — To what extent will individuals and business firms in Appleton be affected by the new increase in postal rates? How much will their added costs amount to in 1968?

It is estimated, on the basis of the latest figures on postal receipts in the Appleton area, released by the federal government, that they will have to spend an additional $372,000 a year. That is 23 per cent more than in fiscal 1966.

The bill, which breezed through both houses of Congress with little controversy, except with regard to third class mail rates, affects mailings beginning Jan. 7.

Under its terms, postal revenues will go up by about $900 million a year, considerably

Court to Rule on Property Annexed From Grand Chute

Town Claims Action Creates Isolated Island of Four Lots

The annexation dispute between Appleton and Grand Chute — involving 145 acres of town land brought into the city earlier in the year — is scheduled for trial.

City Atty. David Geenen said today his office had been served with notice of trial. The case, initiated by the town, will be heard before Circuit Judge Andrew Parnell. The court's calendar opens in March.

Geenen said setting the trial date appeared to be the next procedural move now that the summons and complaint have been answered. There have been no pre-trial discovery proceedings.

Reverse Action

Don Herring, Town of Grand Chute attorney, will seek to set aside the annexation which saw the city bring in 95 acres of property it purchased, along with 50 additional acres of town land.

In his complaint, Herring claimed the city acted illegally in an "arbitrary and capricious manner" and created a so-called town island involving four lots.

The burden of proof lies with the town.

City's Defense

Geenen said the city's chief defense is that nothing in the law should prevent a municipality from annexing land that it owns.

He was referring to the 95-acre Langdyke site north of the city, acquired for industrial, park-recreation and school site purposes more than two years ago.

After the annexation notice was served on the town, the State Department of Resource Planning Division concurred in all aspects of the action with one exception — that a small "island" had been created.

St. Louis Woman Collects on Own Life Insurance
A St. Louis woman who celebrated her 100th birthday collected on her own Aid Association for Lutheran life insurance certificate.

Mrs. Anna Marie Albrecht, who lives at Lutheran Convalescent Home, St. Louis, may be the first person in the country to outlive the CSO41 mortality table, under which an ordinary life policy matures at age 100.

The table was adopted in the 1940s by most insurance companies.

Many people have outlived the American Experience Table in effect before that time and under which ordinary life insurance policies mature at age 96.

St. Louis representatives of the Appleton-based insurance company presented the centenarian with a plant and birthday message. Mrs. Albrecht, who has chosen to leave the proceeds of her certificate on deposit with AAL, also received a congratulatory letter from AAL President Walter L. Rugland.

He did, however, express concern about the short period of time to communicate with member counties on the purpose of the subdivision regulations and the state Department of Natural Resources requirements.

more than the $825 million hike that was originally proposed by the Administration.
Pay Increase
Tied to the measure is a pay raise for government workers. Post Office employes will receive a 6 per cent increase and other federal employes 4.5 per cent.

As far as the average Appleton resident is concerned, the principal effect of the rate changes is that he will have to put 6 cents in stamps on a letter in the future instead of 5 cents, 10 cents on an air-mail letter instead of 8, and 5 cents on a postcard rather than 4 cents.

Also hit by the higher rates will be local business firms that use other classes of mail service.

Second class, which applies chiefly to mailings of newspapers and magazines, will be nearly 25 per cent more costly than at present.

The bulk rate in third class and the rate for books and records sent by mail, which come under fourth class, will also be much greater.

Higher Receipts
In Appleton, a total of $1,617,790 was spent for stamps and other postal services during fiscal year 1966, according to Post Office Department figures.

In 1968, under the new rates, this will rise to an estimated $1,990,000.

On a national basis, the increased rates are expected to bring the department's annual revenue to $5.9 billion, as against $5.0 billion last year. That amount is equivalent to $29.50 for every person in the country.

Four Hurt In Appleton

Woman With Neck Injury Hospitalized

An Appleton woman injured in a three-car pileup about 3:50 p.m., was one of four persons hurt in three mishaps on city streets Tuesday.

Elaine Weiman, 537 W. Verbrick St., suffered a neck injury and was taken by car to Appleton Memorial Hospital after her car was struck in the rear in the 600 block of N. Oneida Street.

Police said a car driven by Michael L. Rupiper, 17, route 2, Appleton, was northbound when it slid into the rear of the Weiman auto which in turn was shoved into the rear of a car driven by Myra R. Recker, 1509 N. Oneida St. The Recker and Weiman autos were northbound on Oneida, stopped for a red light at W. Atlantic Street.

Two-Car Crash

Auguste R. Krause, route 1, and Duane F. Storoesenreuther, 23, 381 N. Rogers St., Kimberly, suffered minor injuries in a two-car crash about 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at N. Division Street and W. Parkway Blvd. Police said the Kimberly car was southbound on Division and the Krause auto went through a stop sign while westbound on Parkway.

Carol Kraus, 18, 219 E. Coolidge Ave., was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment of undertermined injuries after the car she was driving went out of control and struck five "U-Haul" trailers at 1725 S. Oneida Street about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Police said that the Kraus car was northbound on Oneida when it went out of control and struck the trailers parked at Johnson's Service. The car spun around and stopped facing south in front of 1713 S. Oneida St., police said.

Priests Ask Voice In Replacing Bona

Hierarchy Gets Letter From Board

A letter asking for a voice in the naming of a successor to the late Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona has been written by officials of the 250-member Priests Association of the Green Bay Diocese and sent to a number of members of the Catholic hierarchy.

The unprecedented unanimous action was taken in Green Bay during a Dec. 14 meeting of the 20-man board, Bishop Bona, head of the diocese since 1945, died Dec. 1. The see is presently vacant.

The Green Bay Diocese priests, noting that methods for the choice of a new bishop are under scrutiny, suggested in the letter that new procedures give to the priests of a diocese some rights in the selection of candidates for episcopal appointments, which in each case are made finally by the Pope. Currently, new bishops are selected almost exclusively by other members of the hierarchy.

In the letter, it was pointed out that the Green Bay Diocese is unique in the state in that not one of its priests has been named a bishop for 63 years. Each of the other four dioceses in the state have had bishops from the ranks of their clergy within the past two decades.

Since 1904

The last Green Bay priest to be named, the Most Rev. Joseph Fox, received the rank of Bishop of Green Bay, in 1904, the letter commented.

"This sad fact may not be a compelling reason for our writing, but it is one of those very human factors which had led us to explore the more basic issues and policies at stake," the board has written.

A democratization of procedures for the selection of bishop "is called for by the spirit of renewal, by the times in which we live and by the particular American milieu of which we are happily a part," it continued.

Indicating some of the qualities looked for in the soon-to-be appointed eighth bishop of the diocese, the board wrote, "Our priests are intensely interested in the candidates' openness to renewal, his collegial spirit, his age, his convictions on episcopal retirement, his pastoral experience and the esteem with which he is held by his brother priests."

It also asked, "Is it possible for the priests of the diocese, or their elected representatives, to present to Your Excellency the name of one or more of our own priests whom we believe possess the necessary qualifications?"

Democratizing Procedures
"We realize," the letter continues, "that the ways and means of democratizing traditional procedures have their uncertainties and dangers, and that steps need to be taken experimentally to learn their effectiveness. It is our humble but firm conviction that the time has arrived for some courageous steps in this direction."

In conclusion, the board has

Esler Urges Stand

Appleton's Chamber Wants Buckley to End Vocational Law Suit

The Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce today was identified as the group putting pressure on Mayor George Buckley to reconsider his planned lawsuit against the area vocational district board.

And it was disclosed that Sylvester Esler, Appleton, chairman of the Outagamie County Board, also has urged the mayor to forget about instituting any litigation.

As result of Esler's recent appearance at an executive board meeting of the Chamber, the board went on record to meet with Buckley and ask him to withdraw his planned court action.

That meeting was scheduled to be held at Alex's Manor House today.

Buckley said he had agreed to attend "and listen to what they have to say." In the meantime, he also was in contact with an attorney regarding the suit he intends to start against the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 (VTE-12) Board because of its budget procedures.

"As far as I'm concerned, the Chamber representatives will be talking about public business and I will have no objection to the meeting being open to the news media," Buckley told reporters this morning.

Buckley went after the VTE-12 board after it submitted a budget, which required a significant tax rate increase and included a $600,000 figure in it

Escapée Arrested In Waupaca Tavern

Search Ends as Warren Schroeder Is Returned to Prison in Waupun

WAUPACA — Less than 24 hours after he scaled the fence at Fox Lake Correctional Institution, Warren (Pepper) Schroeder was apprehended by Waupaca police who found him drunk in a downtown tavern.

Police, acting on a tip from a citizen, said that Schroeder offered no resistance when they took him into custody at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday. He was taken to jail and within three hours was back at Fox Lake. A 1954 Chevrolet, stolen from a garage at the Ted Pontow home, 48 Fairview St., Appleton, was found near the tavern in which Schroeder was located.

The car had been taken from the Pontow home after midnight Monday. A 1958 auto, stolen from Brandon (Fond du Lac County) about the time of Schroeder's escape from Fox Lake Monday night, was found abandoned near the Pontow home Tuesday morning.

Straight to Appleton
Authorities at the Fox Lake institution, a medium-security facility, said that Schroeder was alone when he scaled a fence about 9 p.m. Monday. Institution personnel said they followed his trail, much of it leading through woods and fields, until about 2 a.m. Tuesday, but then lost him. They said that Schroeder apparently headed straight for Appleton after shaking his pursuers.

Appleton, Outagamie County and Calumet County police, in addition to authorities in several area towns and villages, spent most of Tuesday searching for Schroeder. Several times, they were tipped off as to his whereabouts, but each time he was gone when police arrived. An extensive search was made Tuesday afternoon of the area bounded by Ballard and French roads, State 96 and Outagamie County Trunk 00, after police were told that Schroeder was seen near a tavern at State 96 and French Road, northeast of Appleton.

City to Propose Joint Land Use To School Board

City Planner Walter Rasmussen will present graphic plans to the Appleton Board of Education today on possible joint use of the city-owned Langdyke property, on the city's northeast side, for a school and recreation site.

William Spears, superintendent of schools, said he expected the proposal to be a plan drawn by Rasmussen and the Fox Valley Council of Governments for use of the 95-acre site.

Spears indicated the board expressed interest in the land, purchased by the city about two years ago, as a possible site for a third high school or elementary school. The site is north of Northland Avenue and west of Ballard Road.

Spears said that at the 4 p.m. meeting the board also would discuss the year end bill list and operating balance. The meeting replaces the regularly scheduled meeting which would have been on Christmas.

Buckley Will Run for Mayor Again in 1968

Three Others Said To be Considering Top Appleton Post

Mayor George Buckley made the expected announcement today that he will be a candidate for re-election in 1968.

Buckley, a former alderman, made his intentions known during an impromptu meeting with newsmen shortly before noon.

It is expected he will have opposition in the March primary, with reports that at least three others are contemplating the race.

Mayor Buckley

Starting in 1968 the mayor's term of office will be four years instead of the present two. The annual salary will remain the same at $15,000.

Last week Buckley declined a pay raise when the matter was presented in motion form at a city council meeting.

Campaign on Record
Buckley is expected to campaign on the record his administration compiled during the past two years.

In a prepared statement, Buckley said, "Appleton has had substantial and significant progress during the past two years." He said his administration still kept economy in mind without reducing any essential services.

Buckley pointed to accomplishments of his administration:

—The complete reconstruction of College Avenue.

—Improved citywide street resurfacing programs.

—Acquisition of a new industrial park (formerly the old airport) on the city's far northeast edge.

—Formation of a Housing Authority to look into the ques-

B-Girl Law In Appleton Is Nearer

An ordinance barring B-girls from Appleton night-spots and taverns came one step nearer Tuesday night.

The city council's welfare-ordinance committee approved a draft prepared by the City Atty. David Geenen.

The proposed ordinance will prohibit any female entertainer, waitress or employee from standing or sitting at the bar, table, booth or elsewhere with any male patron.

It will apply to all establishments with Class B beer and liquor licenses.

When the city council meets next week it will have two proposed ordinances to act on for the first time in package form.

Once the council voted to lift the ban on women bartenders, several aldermen pressed for the B-girl law to prevent soliciting.

As a result, both code changes were adopted as a compromise.

A Good Place For Old Toys

With the used toy supply exhausted from deliveries during the past Christmas, Appleton police are seeking toys for needy children next Christmas.

Police, working on the theory that new toys have replaced old ones in many homes, asked that persons donate the old toys for repair and distribution next season.

Police, who said they hoped to make the toy program even bigger next Christmas, explained that anyone wishing to make donations contact the police department.

He was trained in food preparation in mess halls and in the field, and in meat cutting and cake and pastry baking. Army Pfc. Brian K. VoECKs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brian K. VoECKs, 826 E. South St., has arrived in Vietnam with the 101st Airborne Division. He is a mortarman in Company D, 1st Battalion of the Division's 506th Infantry.

Mayor Named To National League Group

Buckley to Serve On Organization's Resource Committee
Mayor George Buckley Tuesday was appointed to the Committee on Natural Resources of the National League of Cities (NLC). The appointment was made by Mayor James Tate of Philadelphia, League president. "You will be a member of a three - member delegation from your state to represent its municipal interests on this important committee," Tate wrote Buckley. Buckley was informed the committee chairman is Mayor Joseph McDowell of Kansas City, Kan., and Mayor John S. Ballard, Akron, Ohio, vice chairman. Year-Around Effort "National municipal policy is a year-round effort," Mayor Tate added, "I sincerely hope that you will accept this assignment and that you will provide the chairman and NLC staff with suggestions for either policy or procedural improvements." Buckley said he would accept the appointment. Recently, some members on the city council suggested he become more active in the National League of Cities and attend the 1968 Congress of American Cities to be held at San Diego.

Snowmobile Course Urged For Appleton

A special course for snowmobiles has been recommended by the Appleton Park and Recreation Commission. The vehicles are banned from municipal parks and the Reid Memorial Golf Course and Appleton has no course at present. In a letter received Tuesday by City Clerk Eldon Broehm, the commission recommended the city to take steps to provide a snowmobile layout. It recommended either use of the 95-acre park and school site north of the city or land at the industrial park at the old Outagamie County Airport. The commission said in asking for the area, it was supporting the recommendation of the Citizen's Advisory Committee.

3 Sons Killed in Christmas Crash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — About $150,000 worth of flowers—over five million blossoms—is being delivered to Lee Miller this week.

As if it wasn't enough, he telephoned Tuesday to Holland for more tulips.

Miller is designing and building 11 of the 60 floats for the rose parade in nearby Pasadena New Year's day. He's been making floats for the parade since 1925.

GATSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Grief-stricken parents made plans today to bury three sons killed when a station wagon plunged through a bridge railing into a mill pond near Gatsville Tuesday.

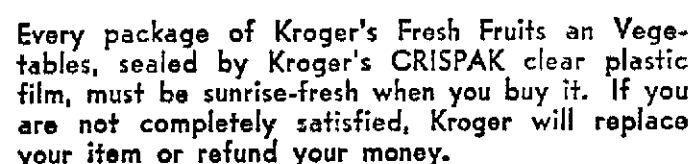

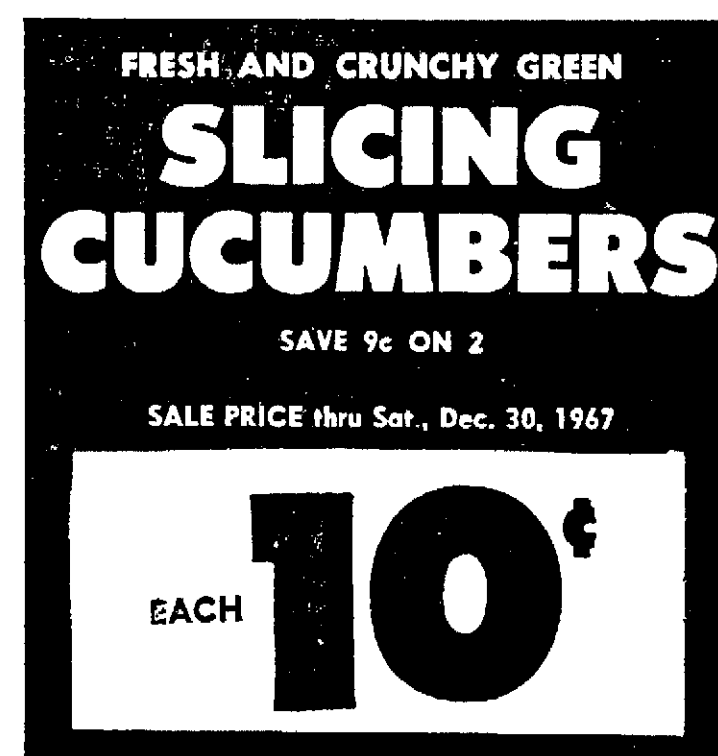

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lassiter Jr. of Stratford, Conn., were visiting relatives for the holidays when three of their sons took the station wagon to visit an uncle Christmas night.

said, is "more than it spends in 10 years on aid to the underdeveloped nations."

The West German magazine Quick ran a story on American sharpshooters in Vietnam and commented "For them modern war, which has made killing an anonymous business, remained a personal pleasure."

When they failed to return, Lassiter began a search. The car was found in 25 feet of water and inside were the bodies of Thomas Lassiter III, 18, Dennis Lassiter, 16, and William Lassiter, 15.

A fourth son had decided at the last moment not to go with his brothers.

Wright's Imperial Hotel

Only Memory in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Through 44 years, war and quake failed to destroy the Imperial Hotel. Now tough little Japanese workmen in hard hats and split-toed boots are doing the job with swift efficiency.

Architects, politicians and people who loved the place tried to save the old section of the Imperial, but in vain. Today the work of architect Frank Lloyd Wright is little more than a hollow shell of broken stone and windowsills.

The three-story building's 300 rooms, most of them drafty, dark and with wavy floors from a sagging understructure, will be replaced by a 17-story building of 1,000 rooms plus banquet you could not afford to stay in the Imperial and viewed it as a gal-jin (foreigner) habitat. Outside Tokyo many, possibly most, Japanese had never even heard of the place.

Even visitors who stayed there were not all fans. One wrote "My room was pretty drab and dark." And the place was a confusing maze of hallways and passages in which it was easy to get lost.

Guests come and go, the bars and ballrooms are full of world travelers, conventioners and sightseers. This section of the Imperial will remain unchanged.

Efforts Failed

Various efforts to preserve the old Imperial, or at least part of it, came to naught. Even the efforts of Oliviana Lloyd Wright, widow of the architect, were to no avail.

There was never really any serious groundswell of widespread public sentiment here. Most average Japanese in Tokyo

UNICEF Starts 21st Year of Aiding Children

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The U.N. Children's Fund has come of age, 21 years after launching a shoe-string mercy mission. It now helps half a billion youngsters and may be extended soon to Communist North Vietnam.

Executive Director Henry R. Labouisse said, the fund, known as UNICEF, has helped South Vietnamese children since 1952 and decided this year to explore possibilities of helping kids in North.

France has proposed that UNICEF seek assistance of Red Cross organizations in getting food and supplies to both Vietnams. The recommendation is under study.

UNICEF's birthday spirit was dampened somewhat by the cost of soaring food and medical needs drawn from a budget which runs far below the target.

In 1967, facing a famine involving 35 million mothers and children in northern India, UNICEF's board allocated more than $50 million, or $15 million above its 1966 income.

Labouisse said UNICEF was scraping the bottom of its reserve barrel to meet the new expenses.

"If we are to maintain this level of aid in subsequent years, we will have to attain a target income level of $50 million by 1969," he said.

Need Money

"I am told that the $35.2 million income we had in 1966 is less than the world spends in two hours arming itself. We need more money and we want more."

The Middle East war erupted last June while the UNICEF executive board was meeting in New York to approve funds for aid programs in 120 countries.

When news of the crisis arrived, Labouisse told the board that the war would have grave repercussions for children in the Middle East. He called for emergency measures.

Three days later, Labouisse announced that $500,000 worth of supplies en route to the Middle

The Post-Crescent C 7

East included 200,000 vials of penicillin, one million tablets of sulfa drugs and 1,400 baby blankets.

Over the years, UNICEF has steadily broadened its original mission of helping the children of postwar Europe until it embraced needy children in Asia, Africa, Latin America and other underprivileged areas.

Since the first modest shipment of powdered milk crossed the Atlantic in early 1947, UNICEF has sent forth 15 billion pounds of milk, 3.5 billion vitamin capsules and other nutrients.

For the sick it has supplied 17 million vials of penicillin, administered 226 million vaccinations against tuberculosis and treated 24 million children for trachoma.

UNICEF was conceived as a stopgap measure after Herbert Hoover, former U.S. president and a veteran relief administrator, reported in 1946 that Europe had 20 to 30 million "physically subnormal" children.

Born in 1946

On Dec. 11, 1946, the U.N. General Assembly created UNICEF and turned over the reins to Maurice Pate. He built UNICEF into the far-flung enterprise it is today.

In 1949, the organization branched into Christmas cards. Sales rocketed from 130,000 the first year to nearly 50 million in 1966.

In 1950 a group of Sunday School children in Bridesburg, Pa., collected $36 in Halloween pennies and turned it over to UNICEF, launching the now famous trick-or-treat program.

In September 1965, eight months after Pate died, UNICEF's efforts were crowned with the Nobel Peace Prize.

Parking Spots Will be Inherited in Year 2000

By HAU BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—What some contempt they now do a will life be like in the year 2000?

Conjecturing about the future, the average job will take only has become a 40-hour week, but in game as a woman's job, she will have to work longer hours. Lumps its way through the first few months of the new millennium, century the 21st will be a time of great change, thus making a total work week of 50 hours.

There's no doubt there will be changes in the way we live. The rate of change may even be accelerating as we use more and more of the computer. Assuming that human life will still exist at the dawn of the 21st century—and that is quite an assumption—here's one man's prediction of how it will over the next 100 years.

Transplants of kneecaps will enable professional football players to stay in the game until the age of 50. Forced feeding and growth capsules fed to men in youth will produce tackles who weigh a ton each on the hoof out of the garage only on every other Sabbath.

Few Birds
There will be fewer birds, as half the countryside will be paved. Parking places will come hereditary.

A cup of drugstore coffee will cost 50 cents. So will bubble gum. Nickels and pennies will no longer be minted, and children will regard a dime with the same contempt they now do a will life be like in the year 2000?

Living Monument
To keep them from being exterminated, all wild animals will be placed in zoos except for one lone grizzly bear in Montana. It will carry a sign on its back that reads: "Do not shoot."

Computer of Choice
Surgeons will still perform operations, but otherwise doctors will have no contact with patients. If you feel you are sick, you can have your ailment checked in a central clinic by a computer. However, to keep medicine from becoming too impersonal, you will be allowed to be diagnosed by the computer of your choice.

Children will remain in the home only until their 13th birthday. During their teen years they will be compelled to do forced labor on government prison farms and in prison factories and attend compulsory classes at which they will be taught how to behave like human beings.

All young people will be forced to marry at 21, remain in college until 25, and complete the birth of any children they wish by the time they are 30. Then they will be given an injection which will make them forget all about sex, or break into uncontrollable laughter whenever the word is mentioned. The injection will last for life.

Single Battlefield
As cities will have become too valuable to be destroyed, Australia will be evacuated and made into the world's battlefield. All international wars will be fought there, and only one war will be permitted at a time. They will be waged by robots, criminals, tax dodgers, and people just too darned cantankerous to fit into a civilized pattern.

But there won't be many people like that, since it will be illegal to be unhappy. "Merry pills" to guarantee a cheerful mood will be distributed free by governments to everyone.

Yep, that's the way things will probably be in the year 2000. In a way I'm kind of sorry I won't be here to see it all. And in a way I'm grateful that these blessings are reserved for posterity.

State Director of Investment Board Resigns Position
MADISON (AP)—C Hayden Jamison said Tuesday he has submitted his resignation as executive director of the Wisconsin State Investment Board.

Jamison, 46, of Madison, has been executive director the last five years. His resignation will become effective Feb. 1.

Jamison said he is leaving the state position to enter the private financial consulting field in Madison. Before entering state service, Jamison was the executive director of the Beloit State Bank.

A successor to Jamison will be picked by the seven-member state investment board.

In its annual report, the board said that earnings for the fiscal year totaled $56,221,374, an increase of $4,225,803 over fiscal 1966.

Every year, we make the same resolutions!

- Because every year, no matter how well we did the year before, our objectives are essentially the same.
- To make A&P a friendly courteous store for you.
- To be fair and honest in our pricing and labeling.
- To sell only quality products we can fully guarantee.
- To do everything possible to bring you the most good food for the least amount of money.
- To prove we care about you.
- We think we did pretty well in '67.
- We'll be trying even harder in '68.
- Here's a prediction:
When '68 comes to a close, we still won't be satisfied and we'll try harder in '69 and '79 and '89 and 1999.
- We don't think we can ever be good enough for you.

Newcombe-Roche Duo Whips Spanish Pair in 3 Doubles Sets

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Australia still reigns supreme in world amateur tennis

The Aussies retained the Davis Cup today when John Newcombe and Tony Roche defeated Manuel Santana and Manuel Orantes 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 in a doubles match, giving them a 3-0 lead over Spain in the Challenge Round and making Thursday's two singles matches meaningless.

Newcombe beat Orantes and Roy Emerson defeated Santana in opening singles matches Tuesday.

Spanish Captain Jaime Bartoli said his team lost a bit because Luis Arilla was unable to play.

Arilla, who usually teams with Santana, was forced to withdraw from the doubles because of a strained thigh. He was replaced by the 18-year-old Orantes.

Only once did the Spaniards get near to breaking their opponents' service as a crowd of 4,200, 300 below capacity, watched Roche and Newcombe clinch the Cup for Australia for the 11th time in the last 13 years and for the 24th time since the competition began.

Lamonica and Blanda Win AFL Titles

Boston's Nance Captures Second Rushing Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Two re-treads who helped Oakland win its first American Football League Western Division title this season, led statistical races as well.

Figures released by the AFL today showed veteran place kicker George Blanda winning the scoring crown with 116 points and quarterback Daryle Lamonica finishing first among the league's passers.

Blanda, cast off by Houston before the season, hooked on with the Raiders and kicked 20 of 30 field goal attempts and 56 of 57 conversion attempts, finishing eight points ahead of Kansas City's kicking specialist, Jan Stenerud.

Lamonica, who was a bench-warmer for four years at Buffalo before being traded to Oakland, hurled 30 touchdown passes and completed 220 of 425 passes for 3,228 yards.

Boston's Jim Nance won his second straight rushing title, gaining 1,216 yards and New York's George Sauer led the league's pass catchers with 75 receptions.

Ligament Partially Torn

Surgery Slated for Lonborg

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Jim Lonborg faced knee surgery today to correct injuries suffered in a skiing accident, but doctors were cautiously optimistic that the ace Boston Red Sox right-hander will be able to open the 1968 season.

"It looks like he will be out about two months," team physician Dr. Thomas Tierney said. "I think he'll open the season — well, we hope he will."

Tierney and Dr. John McGillicuddy, a noted orthopedic surgeon, were scheduled to perform the operation at Sancia Maria Hospital to repair a torn collateral ligament on the inside of Lonborg's left knee.

"It appears to be only a partial tear," McGillicuddy said of the injury which the 24-year-old hurler suffered Saturday on a ski slope near Lake Tahoe, Nev.

$50,000 Contract
Lonborg won the Cy Young Award as the American League's top pitcher after posting a 22-9 record and helping the Red Sox to the pennant, then added two more victories in the World Series. He recently signed his 1968 contract for an estimated $50,000. The doctors were hopeful that if the injury is a simple tear as believed, Lonborg will be ready for the first week of March. Most of spring training, McGillicuddy said such an injury would probably have little, if any, effect on Lonborg's pitching. He said the only problem could be with his follow through. Lonborg said he was injured when his skis caught an edge, and pitched him forward with his feet turned in under him in pigeon-toe fashion.

and Hill has just one victory in seven starts.

After successive losses to Fox Valley Catholic Conference foes De Pere Penning (58-54), Ripp's outfit has been working hard to improve. The Chuters had single drills last Friday and Saturday, got two days off, and then went to 2-a-day practices on Tuesday.

More of the same is in store for this week until Friday's game. "We're looking better," Ripp affirmed Tuesday night, "we're coming. As soon as we get more confidence and more scoring from certain people, we're going to be tough."

Reflecting on his club's losses, Ripp was pleased to some degree with his team's effort against Penning, but noted: "We made too many mistakes again, and against a good ball club, you can't make those mistakes."

Of the Chuters' 31-point defeat at Xavier, Ripp observed: "They worked us over on the boards. And they were hitting from the outside. If you'd try to zone them, they'd shoot you out of it. If you'd try to man-to-man them, they'd drive you to death."

Despite the recent setbacks, the Little Chute lineup should be familiar Friday night. Ripp plans to go with the same starting five he has all year, with Rick Van Roy and "Oscar" Schuler at forwards, Mike Verbruggen at center, and Gary VandeHey and Lee Weyenberg at guards. Chuck Peeters, a 5-9 guard, has shown improvement and may see more action in the backcourt.

Van Roy has the best point average in seven games at 14.6. Schuler and VandeHey are next at 12.8 each, and Verbruggen and Weyenberg trail with 6.6 and 5.4 points per game, respectively. As a team, the Dutchmen are averaging 58.6 points per game while allowing 57.4.

"We're a lot tougher than our record indicates," Ripp concluded, "and as the year progresses, we're going to get stronger."

At 7 P.M. Friday Lawrence University and Carroll College will stage a rematch of an early-season 60-58 thriller. In this action from the game won by Carroll, the Pioneers' Tom Collopy (30)

Chuters to Meet Hill of St. Paul In Tourney Test

Host Eau Claire Regis Will Face Milwaukee Team Friday

BY RON WITT

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"We haven't proven that we're as tough a ball club as we should be, and this might be a good opportunity to do that."

With that note of cautious optimism in mind, Little Chute St. John coach Avitus Ripp takes his Dutchmen cagers to Eau Claire this weekend to participate in the first Eau Claire Regis Holiday Invitational Basketball Tournament.

The Chuters face Hill High School of St. Paul, Minn., in the second game at 8:30 p.m. Friday. In the opening tilt (at 7 p.m.), the home Ramblers take on St. John Cathedral of Milwaukee. The two losers will be paired off at 7 p.m. Saturday, and the first night's winners meet for the championship at 8:30.

Works Hard
Little Chute, with a 3-4 record coming into the tourney, can boast the second-best mark of the four schools entered. Only Regis is above the 500 mark at 5-3. Milwaukee Cathedral is 2-6.

Rare Ailment Affects Maris

Vision Impaired by Bell's Palsy, but Full Cure Expected

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Roger Maris says he'll have to wait and see if the ailment affecting the right side of his face will clear up, but the St. Louis Cardinals are confident Maris will be well by spring training.

The Cardinals said they had no plans to have Maris come to St. Louis for an examination of the Bell's palsy which has affected vision in Maris' right eye. Maris said Tuesday that he has been suffering from the disorder for some time.

He said the ailment prevents him from blinking his eye and has caused some pain. He said he has developed a film over the eye.

Cardinal team physician Dr. I. C. Middleman said Bell's palsy is "something that can clear up in four to six weeks. It's almost 100 per cent curable."

The 33-year-old right fielder had informed the Cardinals some time ago that he would undergo surgery for removal of polyps from his throat, a spokesman said.

Maris scoffed at reports he had lost almost all sight in the eye. He said he was taking medication for the nervous disorder.

Leroy Keyes Named MVP In Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — All-American Leroy Keyes of Purdue has been chosen the Big Ten's most valuable football player for the 1967 season with sophomore quarterback Harry Gonso of Indiana a close second.

Keyes will receive the Silver Football awarded annually since 1924 by The Chicago Tribune.

The junior halfback flanker from Newport News, Va., was selected, from among each Big Ten school's most valuable candidate, by conference coaches. 10 veteran officials, Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed, sports editor George Strickler of the Tribune and Roy Damer, Tribune writer.

Keyes was named first or second on each of the 23 ballots except one.

Impending Williams-Hayes Speed Duel Excites Fans

Willie Davis And Neely to Be Matched

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — There will be any number of intriguing matchups when the Packers and Dallas collide in Sunday's National Football League title game at Lambeau Field.

Not the least of these will be a personal duel between the Pack's annual all-league defensive end, Willie Davis, and Cowboy offensive tackle Ralph Neely, likewise an All-NFL choice.

The Texans' Bob Lilly, another "all" selection, and Gale Gillingham, the Packers' talented sophomore guard, will meet head-on in another test of skill and strength.

As a matter of fact, the world champions' entire offensive wall, fresh from conquering the Rams' vaunted fearsome four-some, faces a bristling challenge in the Cowboys' front four (George Andrie, Willie Townes, Jethro Pugh and Lilly), which led the NFL in defense against rushing.

Starr Vs. Meredith

And, of course, in a slightly different context, Packer precisionist Bart Starr will be matched with the Cowboys' accomplished quarterback, swashbuckling Don Meredith.

But the confrontation that has the Packer faithful agog with anticipation will find the two greatest game-breakers of the day, the Pack's Travis Williams and Cowboy comet Bob Hayes, showcased on the same turf for the first time.

For the first time, that is, as principals. Williams, who well could have been the NFL's rookie of the year, was a member of the Green Bay cast when the Packers forged a 20-3 decision over the Cowboys in a pre-season game at Dallas Aug. 28, but was employed only on the special teams on that occasion.

The "Road Runner," of course, demonstrated his "all the way" prowess most opportunely in last Saturday's triumph over the Rams, bursting over right tackle and streaking 46 yards to score in the second quarter to forge a 7-7 tie and trigger the Pack's surge to a 28-7 victory in the frigid Western Conference playoff at Milwaukee County Stadium.

Williams later scored the final

Cowboys Must Dominate Ground Game, Says Landry

Says Statistics Dictate Plan For Title Game

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys said today the statistics pretty well dictated his plans for the National Football League championship game against Green Bay Sunday.

"My predictions don't always come out right as evidenced by last year's championship game between Dallas and Green Bay," Landry observed. "I said you could expect a tough defensive game. But it turned out to be an offensive game" against Cleveland. But he con- "However, I note that Green Bay is toughest against passes completed on 10, should have completed another and deliberately in the league (the Packers' all-threw away the 12th when he lowed only 98.4 yards per game) saw it might be intercepted. in the air) So it seems we But he passed for two touchdowns and his passing helped if we are to win" set up two more, plus a field goal. However, great punt returns by Bob Hayes and ball control by running made much of the scoring possible.

He added that "we'll have to control the ball on the ground, the way we did against Cleveland (Dallas beat the Browns 52-14 for the Eastern Conference championship) and then pick our spots carefully in throwing the ball" Landry said nothing new was being tried and would not be. The Cowboys fly to Appleton, Wis., Friday afternoon and move into Green Bay Saturday.

Bengals Swap Two Top Draft Choices For Miami's Stofa

Move Gives Young Quarterback Opportunity at Starting Position

CINCINNATI (AP) — The new missed two games because of a Cincinnati Bengals of the American Football League began the passed for 2,005 yards and 15 job of building for their 1968 touchdowns and was the but by acquiring quarterback league's top running quarter-

John Stofa Tuesday from the back with 157 yards Miami Dolphins

"I would not be fair to Stofa The Bengals paid dearly, or Griese to keep both on the giving up their first and second same team," Robbie said round bonus selections in the "Griese has established himself, as our No. 1 quarterback"

Knocked Around Stofa spent 2½ years in the minor leagues and was cut by Miami and Pittsburgh of the National League before he got the call from Miami after Rick Norton broke his jaw. He joined the Dolphins midway of the 1966 season, sat out several games and finally started the last game of the campaign against Houston. He threw four touchdown passes. Robbie said he was a strong believer in building a team from high draft choices

"We have never traded away our top draft choice," Robbie added. "Denver had to give up its first round pick to get Steve Tensi. New Orleans traded its first choice to Green Bay for Jim Taylor

"Instead, we went into the college draft and the open market to obtain top quarterback material. The policy has paid off

"We feel that the development of a strong team depends mainly on high draft choices. Nine picks in the first five rounds should give us an outstanding opportunity to improve next year"

Missed Action Stofa, 25, a 6-3, 210-pound graduate of Buffalo University, started the final game for Miami last year but missed action this season because of a broken leg.

His place at the Miami signal-calling slot was taken over by Bob Griese, the flashy rookie from Purdue who came on strong at the end of the campaign, guiding the Dolphins to four victories.

Stofa won the Miami quarter-backing job in the exhibition season but broke an ankle four minutes after the start of the opening league game with Denver.

Griese took over. Although he

Eddie Ray Dropped From School After Classroom Incident

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — With the Sugar Bowl just five days off, Louisiana State's football team today found itself minus No. 1 fullback Eddie Ray, the Southeastern Conference's top punter.

Coach Charlie McClendon quickly shifted personnel around to fill the gap while Wyoming Coach Lloyd Eaton, whose unbeaten and untied Cowboys battle LSU in the 34th Sugar Bowl Classic here New Year's Day, told sports writers:

"I know Eddie Ray's loss is a great blow to LSU, but they've got such tremendous depth and so many fine backs that I don't know if it will really make a big difference."

McClendon informed his squad Tuesday that Ray, a 6-foot-2, 220-pound soph from Vicksburg, Miss., had been suspended from school.

Big Blow "This is a terrific setback both to Eddie and to our football team," said McClendon. "However, I want it understood that I defend the action that Eddie took that brought about his suspension. There will be many, many mothers and fathers proud of his action."

The suspension was ordered by the University Disciplinary

Larry Siegfried Sidelined With Back Sprain

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Siegfried, Boston Celtics guard who was injured in a game Monday in New York, will be out for at least a month, a Celtics spokesman said Tuesday.

Siegfried is at St. Elizabeth's Hospital where his injury was diagnosed as a severe back sprain complicated by a possible protruding disc.

He is expected to remain in the hospital for three weeks. Siegfried left the game in the first half, complaining of a sore back.

Committee, which never discloses its reasons.

"I know Wyoming's jumping up and down for joy to know that that big bull's not going to be there," McClendon said in a telephone interview from the Baton Rouge campus.

McClendon declined to discuss the suspension, but it was learned that the action came as a result of Ray voluntarily confessing a classroom mistake.

Writers to Honor Eddie Mathews as 'Last of Mohicans'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Eddie Mathews, formerly of the Milwaukee and Atlanta Braves and now with the Detroit Tigers, will be honored Jan. 21 at the 15th annual Diamond Dinner of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Mathews, 36, will be given a special "Last of the Mohicans" trophy, it was announced Tuesday.

The award is symbolic of the fact that the baseball veteran is the only "original" Milwaukee Brave still playing in the major leagues.

All other players who made the move from Boston to Milwaukee in 1953 have since left the big leagues.

Mathews, who now plays first and third for the Tigers, is a past winner of the Milwaukee writers' most valuable Milwaukee Brave Award. He ranks seventh in lifetime major league home runs with 503.

McKay Likens Hoosiers To UCLA Grid Squad

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Coach John McKay of the Southern California Trojans says the team's football forces are "more like UCLA than any other team we've played."

The Trojans and the Hoosiers of the Big Ten battle in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day and the comparison with UCLA brings to mind that USC beat the Bruins by only a single point, 21-20, to win the right to represent the Pacific-8.

"Defensively they're not too big but quick and they don't allow big gains," McKay told the Southern California California Football Writers on Tuesday. He added that offensively the personnel in the Indiana backfield also resembles that of the Uclans.

All America linebacker Adrian Young and defensive end Tim Roosovich were quick to agree with their coach.

Two Scramblers
Young said quarterbacks Harry Gonso, the Indiana sophomore, and UCLA's Heisman Trophy winner Gary Beban were both scramblers who "keep you on your toes."

A poll of those attending the session showed 67 favoring USC and 31 for Indiana with two predicting a tie. Those voting for the Trojans predicted a 15-point spread on the average while those for Indiana averaged only a four-point difference.

Warriors Duel Ohio State '5' In Tournament

Winner to Face Houston or Bradley At Honolulu

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Marquette University opens play in the Rainbow Classic basketball tournament here tonight against unbeaten Big Ten power Ohio State.

Another opening round game pits unbeaten Houston, ranked second in the nation and established as the tournament favorite, takes on Bradley.

Should Marquette get past Ohio State, the Warriors will meet the winner of the Houston-Bradley game.

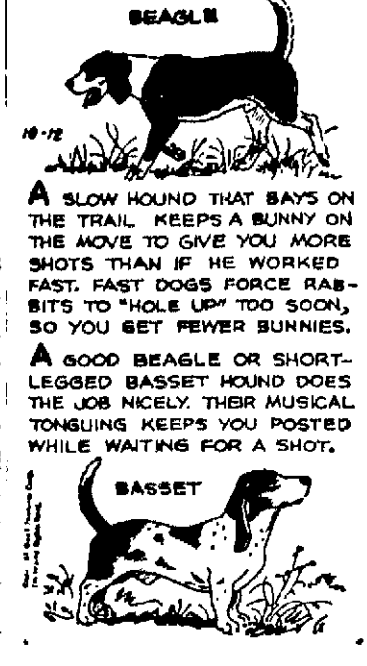

Marquette has a 6-1 record going into the game against the Buckeyes, who are 5-0.

The only apparent basis for comparison between the Marquette and Ohio State is how the two fared against a mutual foe — Florida State.

The Warriors stopped the Seminoles 78-58 in the Milwaukee Classic, while Ohio State barely managed to stave off a strong Florida State comeback and won 76-69.

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — Big Buster Mathis had his 23rd consecutive victory in the bag today, and it was one of the easiest in the unbeaten giant's meteoric boxing career.

Mathis, 23 years old from Grand Rapids, Mich., scored a technical knockout victory over Gerry De Bruyn, the South African titleholder, only 36 seconds after the opening bell Tuesday.

The American, a leading heavyweight contender, connected with two right-left combinations and then floored his opponent with a hard right.

De Bruyn got to his feet, but the referee stopped the bout because the South African was unable to continue.

Mathis weighed 243 pounds, and De Bruyn 197.

The one-round knockout was De Bruyn's first defeat in 17 fights. His over-all record is now 20 victories, four losses and two draws.

Columbia, Louisville Notch Easy Wins

Columbia and Louisville clashed in Thursday night's semifinal doubleheader, which also pits St. John's, N.Y., against 10th-ranked Boston College in a rematch of their earlier meeting.

Newmark and McMillian each will have to be sky-high, however, when Columbia tries to bring down towering Westley Unseld and the resurgent Louisville Cardinals in the semifinals of the 16th annual Madison Square Garden classic.

West Virginia's zone limited flu-plagued Newmark to one rebound and two baskets Tuesday night, but McMillian popped in 40 points as the Lions ousted the Mountaineers 99-71 in a first-round game.

A B-Girl Ordinance

The latest proposal by the Appleton Council's Welfare and Ordinance Committee in recommending adoption of an anti-soliciting (B-girl law) is a prudent move in view of the recent action of the city's aldermen in taking the first step to lower the ban on women bartenders, an act which in effect will erase a discrimination stigma.

While giving females equal opportunity to tend bar and dropping a longstanding policy in Appleton, the City Council may have leaped before it looked by not establishing regulations to govern activities of the fairer sex employed in taverns and other establishments where drinks are served.

The B - girl ordinance, variations of which are in effect in other Wisconsin communities, would prohibit female waitresses, bartenders and entertainers from

Spending for Schools

With some of the taxpayer groups irately pointing to uninterrupted rises in the school tax rates, and some of the educational groups and their supporters complaining of what they regard as niggardliness in accommodating school budget demands, there is a chance that the open-minded citizen standing somewhere between is confused about the realities of the school finance record.

In an earlier discussion in these columns we commented that Wisconsin appears to rate reasonably well with other states in the aggregate of its investment of public funds in the school programs, in relation to its economic capacity. We cite today additional data provided by the State Department of Public Instruction showing the considerable advancements in recent years when measured against our own previous commitments and standards of adequacy in school-dedicated public revenues.

Some relevant examples:

In the decade between 1956 and 1966, the total income of the people of Wisconsin rose by 69 per cent. Total state and local taxes rose 115 per cent. Total cost of school operations rose 152 per cent.

Perhaps more meaningful is the proof of a strong commitment to higher quality in the services of the schools, quite aside from the additional expenditures that could not be avoided because of the increase in the school age population in virtually all localities.

During that decade the quality of teachers on the whole, measured by the

No Buying From Red China?

The United States has no trade relations with Communist China, North Korea, North Vietnam or Cuba — countries deemed to have hostile Red leadership in contrast to the Soviet Union and eastern European nations which deal with us on a limited basis.

The visitor in the Far East finds that some goods coming from Red China are both inexpensive and of good quality. This is especially true of some of the traditional handicrafts, the jade sculptures, woven wool rugs, intricately carved furniture. But the American can only look, not buy. There is nothing against his purchasing the goods, of course, but he is not permitted to bring them back with him to the United States. Indeed for a large number of Chinese type articles he must possess a certificate of origin to prove that it was made in Hong Kong or Taiwan and not by Communists. The C.C.O.'s are carefully collected by customs officials back in the United States.

While we may wonder just how much

Supt. John Stephens Retiring

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 28, 1867.

There is but one change to take place in a county office on the first Monday in January, John Stephens retiring from the post of County Superintendent (of Schools), to give the place to a much younger man.

Mr. Stephens labored hard in the thankless effort to indoctrinate the people with the necessity and importance of elevating the Common School system to a grade where children can be sufficiently educated to make them fitted for the business of life, and useful, intelligent citizens; and he retires with the good wishes of the masses that he may be prospered in such pursuits as he may engage in.

Like most men, he has had his crochets and his faults, but we think none will cherish ill will against him on his retiring from official station.

It is reasonable to assume that members of the Common Council and operators of Appleton drinking establishments will support legislation which prohibits women employees from hustling drinks. The B-girl ordinance is also aimed at preventing organized prostitution.

The burden is on every community to have strict licensing laws which are properly enforced. And one thing aldermen should keep in mind on all deliberations regarding licenses and tavern laws is that Wisconsin Statutes indicate that a license is to be considered a privilege and not a right.

And municipal lawmakers should not lose sight of the statutory requirement that a person applying for a license must be "of high moral character". Keeping this in mind, there is no reason why Appleton can't remain a fun, but clean, city.

ratio of those with four years of training or more beyond high school, has improved spectacularly. The gain in professional attainment was 50 per cent, the department reports.

Curriculum enrichment has been widespread, and in the perspective of today's middle-aged adults, spectacular. Ten years ago there was virtually no foreign language instruction in the elementary or junior high schools. Today seven and one-half per cent of all the elementary school children are studying a foreign language, and a striking 18 per cent of the junior high school students do so. Moreover, a rising ratio of such enrollments is a certainty. At the same time enrollments in high school foreign language courses have more than doubled.

The same story of bold curricular liberalization is shown in the more numerous advanced science courses taught in the high schools, and the percentage of high school students enrolled in guidance programs. The latter now stands at nearly 100 per cent. Although the kindergarten as a part of the school program is something of a Wisconsin idea, being pioneered here nearly a century ago, only about six out of 10 of the five-year-old children in the state in 1956 were enrolled in such programs. Today the score stands at a whopping 86 per cent. Whatever the limitations and inadequacies of our enormous school expenditure effort in Wisconsin, it is necessary at intervals to remind ourselves that we are in fact moving ahead at a pace that would have startled our immediate ancestors.

we are depriving Chinese merchants by our policy, the news that the Agency for International Development accidentally contracted for rice for South Vietnam with a Communist Chinese firm indicates that the policy can be evaded and sometimes for a large sum. The Chinese firm received some $544,000 for the rice and three Saigon officials who arranged it pocketed $92,000 in kickbacks. In Asia this is the traditional way of doing business. We must suspect that there are innumerable such incidents that never do come to light. Last summer it turned out that another Red Chinese firm was enthusiastically selling concrete both to North Vietnam and to American officials in South Vietnam.

(Somehow it seems as if the time of American officials could better be spent trying to make sure the big deals with their kickbacks do not go through instead of worrying that an American tourist might buy an ivory chess set or a bolt of silk from the wrong side in China.)

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Holterman, Appleton, was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the United States Army. Lt. Col. Holterman was an Appleton High School Graduate and a graduate of West Point. He was on maneuvers in Virginia with the 74th coast artillery, anti-aircraft.

Mrs. Orville Fiestadt was to sing a solo at the Christmas candle lighting service of Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Seymour. A duet was to be presented by Mrs. Earl Drephal and Mrs. Fiestadt and the Christmas song "Jesus Bambino" was to be sung by a trio composed of the two women plus Miss Rhoda Luedtke.

Boy Strikes Out at World and World Strikes Him Down

Editor, Post-Crescent.

In addition to your editorial "Bravado and Tears" printed Dec. 20, imagine the following situation:

A very small boy, three years old, realizes that his daddy no longer comes home like he used to. His mother cries a lot. The babies cry a lot.

A small boy, five years old, starts school. The other kids are not afraid to talk like he is. They seem happier. He is scared.

The same boy, seven years old, finds that he has trouble learning how to read. All the other kids already know how. The teacher doesn't help him anymore.

The same boy, nine years old, pretends he knows how to read and copies answers on tests. Life in school is frightening. Life outside is a release from tension. But still his mother cries.

The same boy, twelve years old, is convinced that he is a failure. No one will teach him

Wisconsin Report
State's Presidential Primary
Next Year Has Real Meaning

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — It is customary for the national press during the period of maneuver preceding the presidential nominations to put Wisconsin in the spotlight as having a meaningful opportunity to influence the selections in its early presidential primary election. But today it can be said that such descriptions are true. Often in other years the state's importance in the pre-convention maneuvering was more nominal than real because the Wisconsin ballot infrequently contained the names of all the contenders, announced and otherwise.

It may be fairly surmised now that the Wisconsin Republican ballot next April will contain the name of at least five Republican national leaders, Nixon, Reagan, Romney, Stassen and Rockefeller.

It's All From Us Taxpayers
Johnson—and Congressmen—Got Awful Lot of Money Last Session

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR
In President Johnson's poll-sour situation as Congress adjourned there's more than meets the eye.

The drop in Mr. Johnson's popularity seems primarily due to two things: the failure of his domestic programs to insure tranquility and the failure of his foreign policy to bring peace.

ten appeared to oppose LBJ in the headlines but he won in the realities.

If Mr. Johnson's pie-in-the-sky approach, along with that of the overspenders in Congress, looks modified it is largely because their backlog of causes is currently depleted by their elephant-sized legislative output of the past two years.

The last Congress before the Kennedy - Johnson Administrations took over appropriated $83.8 billion. LBJ's first Congress voted to spend $119.3 billion of our money. The Johnson Congress that adjourned Dec. 15 appropriated $141.8 billion, an incredible difference of $58 billion in only the year 1967. Nor does this include about $15.3 billion for such costs as the $14.1 billion to pay the mounting interest now due annually on the federal debt that do not require enactment.

Takes Much Money
Yet it takes all the federal taxes paid by everybody earning $6,000 a year or less just to pay this debt-interest item alone.

Accordingly, the adjourned Congress' true appropriation figure exceeds $157 billion.

No wonder that in the world's cold appraisal of what's happening to us here the U.S. dollar is threatened and our gold reserve has sunk to the lowest in more than 30 years.

The adjourned Congress passed 17 separate money bills, including the $69.9 billion defense bill, which is the largest single appropriation ever made in the history of the United States. Yet Vietnam war or no war, the Administration increased its 1967 non-defense spending a full 9 1/2 per cent. Moreover, it has done this each year since fiscal 1963.

That's where the contrast between the economy head-

People every place I go do not seem to understand why we should be unable to force Ho Chi Minh to sue for peace just as we did the Germans and Japanese in World War II.

Why is it, many ask, that it is only in the two wars in which our opponents have been Communist states that we have refused to make victory our objective — Korea and Vietnam?

Most pollsters, in turn, find that crime in the streets and the rising cost of living and of government (taxes) are the major concerns of the voting public, even ahead of Vietnam.

LBJ Won in Realities
Yet many of the lumps that President Johnson took from the adjourned Congress look uglier than they really are. The Democratic Congress of

A Reader

The announcements of Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota that he will file in Wisconsin to challenge the war policy of President Lyndon B. Johnson will add excitement to the Wisconsin situation. It will provide a kind of plebiscite, at least among Democrats, on that commanding issue of the times. Perhaps never in the half century or more of Wisconsin presidential primaries has such a provocative ticket lineup been promised.

Wisconsin will cast a big shadow over the land until the balloting of next April is completed.

The new primary election law provides the fullest possible opportunity for choosing by the voters of Wisconsin. It is something of a mystery why this state with its emphatic democratic traditions did not contrive such a mechanism a long time ago.

The new law sets up an electoral commission that will put names on each ballot according to the announced intentions of the men, plus the names of others who are widely regarded as candidates, have campaign committees working on their behalf, or are advocated and publicized as possible choices of either party.

Such members of the commission as have discussed the matter have made it clear that they will insist upon the most literal compliance with the spirit as well as the letter of the statute. The announce-

Police Turn to Ex-Servicemen
For New Recruits

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky State Police is turning to the ranks of returning military servicemen in an attempt to bring its force up to full strength.

Police headquarters gets the names and records of men being discharged from the service, and then contacts those who seem to meet physical and educational requirements for troopers.

The force has been unable to find enough recruits to add 50 new troopers to the force each year as authorized by the 1966 legislature.

Emergency Use Only

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska's new executive airplane has some special emergency equipment—a can opener.

Attached to the opener is a red tag reading: "For emergency use only."

It all came about when State Aeronautics Director Howard Vest and state pilots Jon Auer and Bob Heilig went to Oklahoma City to pick up the plane. When the pilots climbed aboard for a routine check, they found themselves locked inside because of a malfunctioning door lock.

They had to use an emergency hatch to escape. The "special equipment" appeared unannounced a few days later.

Strictly Personal
Young Are Failing
To Learn From Past

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
When I was a boy, a truly "popular" song would last for years; we had some old Al Jolson records that we would play on our wind-up phonograph until they wore out — more than 40 years later, I can still recall all the words to "April Showers."

Harris

Today, of course, a song that lasts for three months is what the disc jockeys call "a golden oldie." The pace has been so speeded up, and the rate of obsolescence is so relentless, that the day before yesterday might as well have been a year ago.

This would be of no consequence if it applied only to such social ephemera as popular songs. But it applies to everything else as well, and this is what makes teaching so doubly difficult in the modern era: Our connections to the past have been nearly severed.

To those of us who lived through the Depression, it remains a never-to-be-forgotten episode of human suffering and degradation. To those who lived through the decade of Nazism, it remains likewise a hideously demonic era that seems more like a nightmare than reality.

But to young people today, both these events might be as remote in history as the Crusades or the War of the Roses. It is nearly impossible to convey the profound effect they had on modern history.

A sense of perspective, of continuity, is one of the most important elements in the teaching of the young; without it, they cannot understand the interwoven tapestry of human history, and instead of seeing "cause and effect" they see only isolated and meaningless incidents.

If 10 years ago might as well be 100 years ago, then all proportion is blurred, and Hitlerism is no more relevant to our age than the exploits of Charlemagne or Napoleon. But there is an Ariadne's thread in history which leads us to the center of the labyrinth; and when this thread is snapped, we can only wander disconsolately through the maze, forever bumping our heads against dead ends.

In rejecting the horrors and errors of the past, the young tend to reject the past in toto, and thus become incapable of learning from it. Because the rate of change is so great and so steady in modern life, a year becomes outdated faster than a decade used to; and our sense of time becomes as blurred as a speeded-up movie camera.

Education is largely a process of "eliciting" the past, and projecting it into the present and future. But when even the recent past is so confused, remote, and "dead" to young minds, little can be elicited that will strike any responsive emotional chord. And, meanwhile, the Minotaur awaits our youths and maidens, licking its chops in the middle of the maze.

Garrison Takes First Steps To Extradite Latest Suspect

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His attorney says Edgar Eugene Bradley will fight extradition to face charges by New Orleans Dist. Atty. James Garrison that Bradley conspired to kill President John F. Kennedy.

"I will fight extradition tooth and nail," attorney George Jensen said Tuesday. "I will not let him go to Louisiana."

The attorney said Bradley would surrender today in Los Angeles.

The complaint was based on a Louisiana warrant obtained by Garrison charging Bradley with conspiracy to commit murder.

In a news conference Tuesday in New Orleans, Garrison said Bradley worked in 1964 to drum up presidential support in California for FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Agent of CIA

He also declared that Lee Harvey Oswald, identified by the Warren Commission as Kennedy's assassin, was an agent of the Central Intelligence Agency and that Oswald had tipped the FBI about the assassination plot five days before it happened. He said Oswald was a "patsy."

The Louisiana warrant "doesn't mention President Kennedy or any other alleged victim," Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger told a news conference Tuesday.

Younger added that the complaint "does not indicate opinion on our part as to the validity of the charge or the guilt or innocence of Mr. Bradley."

Younger said the complaint was just "a simple procedural act to get this person into court." The case can be continued for up to 30 days for Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen to undertake extradition proceedings. The final decision rests with California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Bradley has denied Garrison's accusations, contending he knows nothing of Kennedy's killing other than what has been made public.

He is the second man Garrison has charged with conspiracy in the 1963 assassination of

Kennedy in Dallas. Under indictment is a New Orleans businessman, Clay Shaw.

Bradley is west coast representative of the Rev. Dr. Carl McIntire, president of the American Council of Churches.

At his news conference, Garrison declined to discuss the charges against Bradley, saying it would prejudice his case.

Garrison said he had evidence the conspirators' final meeting took place Nov. 17, 1963 and that "that day, the FBI sent out an interbureau telegram announcing the Nov. 22 assassination attempt."

Garrison said the telegram was sent to Hoover and that "what came down to President Kennedy you can judge for yourself in that he was allowed to ride without a bubbletop (on his car) in that parade in Dallas."

Garrison repeated his charge that President Johnson has "actively concealed evidence of the murder of his predecessor," adding that "he can't be allowed to get away with it."

Whether a Vatican delegation to Hanoi is being planned, the circumstances of the meeting of the Pope and the President prompted speculation that the pontiff is now taking a more active part in efforts to promote peace in Vietnam.

1 Dead, 24 Injured In Plant Explosion

HANOVER, Mass. (AP) — Fire and explosion today ripped a frame building at the Atlantic Research Corp., manufacturers of anti-personnel mines for use in Vietnam, killing one person and injuring at least 24 others.

The small wooden structure was used for mixing explosives, police said, and a small fire touched off the explosion.

Egypt Agrees to Clear Southern Half of Canal

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt may soon release the 15 ships stranded in the southern half of the Suez Canal but the waterway will not be cleared and reopened to international shipping unless Israel evacuates its troops from the Sinai Peninsula, an official Egyptian spokesman said today.

Dr. Mohamed Hassan el Zayat told a news conference the government is studying a plan to remove a sunken ship from the southern portion of the canal to allow the trapped vessels to leave. But he said the canal would remain closed to shipping until Israel pulls back.

"We cannot reopen the canal under the shadow of Israeli guns on the east bank of the canal," he said.

The semiofficial newspaper Al

Ahram had indicated earlier in the day that Egypt would undertake the project to free the ships.

Al Ahram, which often speaks for President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said Nasser's government "undertook an extensive study of the problem in all its aspects" and established that clearance of the southern part of the waterway was "feasible."

The paper said the government made the study in response to repeated requests from Poland, France and Britain, which have ships trapped in the canal, and from India.

Egypt turned down a similar request last September, insisting that no part of the canal could be cleared until Israeli troops withdrew from the east bank of the canal and other territories they occupied in the June war.

By refusing to clear the northern end of the canal and reopen it to navigation, Nasser would still retain a bargaining lever to support his demands for Israeli withdrawal.

Al Ahram gave no indication when clearing operations might start or how long they were expected to take.

Speculation Follows Trip by LBJ

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In the wake of President Johnson's meeting with Pope Paul VI, reports spread in Vatican circles today that the pontiff will send a peace mission soon to North Vietnam.

It was impossible to confirm whether the reports were leaks inspired by leading Vatican officials preparing the ground for such a mission, or simply logical speculation.

The reports first appeared in the Turin daily La Stampa, considered usually well informed on Vatican affairs. Afternoon Rome dailies later carried much the same story.

A Vatican spokesman, asked about the reports, commented: "It appears that what La Stampa writes is mainly speculation. We know no more than what was said in the communique after Johnson met with the Pope."

There was no joint communique issued after that meeting the night of Dec. 23. The President stopped off in Rome on his way home from Australia to discuss Vietnam with the Pope.

Agrees in Principle

Johnson said afterward he would agree to stop the U.S. bombings if the principle of mutual restraint were also accepted by North Vietnam.

He told the Pope American war prisoners held in North Vietnam were being denied their rights. He also added he would be keeping in touch with the pontiff in the days ahead on the Vietnam issue.

The La Stampa story said: "After the meeting between Johnson and Paul it is expected that soon a Vatican delegation will be sent to North Vietnam."

It said the initial purpose would be to obtain more humane treatment for American war prisoners, but that this would provide the chance for political contacts with the hope of preparing the way for preliminary talks aimed at starting peace negotiations.

The Rome daily Momento Sera claimed that the head of the delegation might be the Rt. Rev. George Huessler, head of the German division of Caritas Internationalis, a Roman Catholic aid and charity organization.

Earlier Visit

Msgr. Huessler visited Hanoi last January to survey what hospital equipment and other aid for war victims might be needed there. He was the first Roman Catholic church official sent to Hanoi since the partition of the country in 1954.

Whether a Vatican delegation to Hanoi is being planned, the circumstances of the meeting of the Pope and the President prompted speculation that the pontiff is now taking a more active part in efforts to promote peace in Vietnam.

It is generally believed that he would not have made his offer to act as a personal mediator between Washington and Hanoi unless he felt he could carry out diplomatic tasks as a go-between

The Vietnam War in 1967

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietnam war spiraled to new heights in 1967. A year of action from one end of the country to the other has left knowledgeable Americans concerned at the possibility of bigger and bloodier battles ahead.

Both sides claimed numerous victories this year. In the terms of reference both used, both were right.

American commanders tend to analyze Vietnam in terms of World War II. The Communists see the war in terms of the fight to oust the colonial French in the 1950s.

As this year ends military tacticians cannot determine that even one decisive battle has been fought. At the demilitarized zone both sides are bogged down in the mud and slush of the monsoon season. Hill 875 and the other headlined heights of Dak To are being taken over again by the jungle and avoided by both sides since the bloody battles of November.

Curtain Raiser

The Communists put to a severe test the allied tactics of attrition espoused by Gen. William C. Westmoreland. At the DMZ U.S. Marine officers estimated that casualties taken by both sides were on a one-to-one basis all year long.

to the war is based partly on the huge total of enemy dead—more than 80,000 this year by allied reckoning. But the Communists continued to commit men in seemingly pointless battles right up to the year's end.

Killings of more than 100 enemy troops at a time were confirmed particularly along the Cambodian border north of Saigon. An American brigade commander said: "Don't let us forget that the Viet Minh lost an estimated half a million dead in the struggle against the French. They are much better organized now and they have lost nowhere near that number in this war."

Allied Forces Wipe Out Half of Enemy Battalion

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese soldiers and rocket-spewing American helicopters wiped out half of a Communist battalion Tuesday.

Fifteen South Vietnamese were killed, 59 were wounded, and the gunners of the crack 416th Viet Cong Battalion shot down two American helicopters and riddled several more.

Three U.S. helicopter crewmen and an American infantry adviser were wounded, along with one Australian adviser.

Starts During Truce

It was the first major battle after the 24-hour Christmas

truce proclaimed by the South Vietnamese. The fighting began more than 12 hours before the end of the three-day cease-fire ordered by the Viet Cong.

The battle flared early Tuesday when a South Vietnamese battalion swept out on a search-and-destroy operation northeast of Quang Tri city. The South Vietnamese caught the Red force in the coastal flats and pinned it to the coast as a second government battalion was rushed up with armored vehicles to block the enemy's escape routes.

Artillery and jet planes pounded the Viet Cong, and then the helicopters whirled in with rockets and machine guns blazing. They were credited with a large part of the enemy casualties.

Heavy fire rained on the Viet Cong throughout the day and into the night, with flare ships lighting the battlefield. By 1 a.m. today the enemy had evidently slipped out on the flanks, leaving 42 rifles and submachine guns and 10 heavier weapons in addition to the dead they could not carry away. Six prisoners were also taken, including one junior officer.

In the air war, U.S. pilots flew 150 missions over North Vietnam Tuesday, the largest number in five weeks.

Coastal Targets

The cloud ceiling ranged from 2000 to 3000 feet over most of the country and only one raid struck deep into the interior, at a boatyard some 20 miles up the Red River from Hanoi.

The other strikes raked coastal roads, rails and canals from below Hanoi to the demilitarized zone. Navy pilots reported 20 sampans blasted out of the water and 20 trucks destroyed or damaged.

U.S. B52 bombers returned to the central highlands, dropping some 50,000 pounds of bombs in an area close to the Cambodian border from which enemy gunners had been harassing American planes and firing mortar shells at American camps. Observers said the area was dotted by secondary explosions.

Less than five miles from the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon a bivouac of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division was heavily mortared and 15 GIs were wounded. The Communists also lobbed tear gas shells into one part of the defense ring but failed to follow up with a ground attack.

Aussie Regiment

Allied troop strength in South Vietnam rose with the arrival of 500 men of the Royal Australian Regiment's 3rd Battalion. There are now 7,500 Australians in the country, and the number will reach 8,000 when the rest of the new battalion arrives shortly.

The 3rd Battalion won a U.S. Presidential Unit Citation in 1951 in Korea. It was the first Aussie unit in action in Korea and stayed there until the end of the war.

King May be Met by Premier

ATHENS (AP) — Reliable sources said today King Constantine may return to Greece before New Year's Day and will be greeted by Premier George Papadopoulos, the man he attempted to oust from power.

Papadopoulos, accompanied by Deputy Premier Stylianos Patakos, flew off for northern Greece for a tour of the provinces.

The grand marshal of the royal court, Leonidas Papagos, who fled to Rome with the king after the abortive Dec. 13 coup, returned from Rome Tuesday, reportedly to prepare for the king's return. He said he came back to attend to some personal problems.

Reliable sources said the royal family probably would land at a military air base near Athens to avoid curious crowds.

'Work to All'

Papadopoulos in a New Year's message to Greeks residing abroad, urged their return, saying that the country "is being cleansed, reorganized and modernized at such a rapid pace so that, within a short time, it will be able to offer the happiness of work to all of its children who have emigrated."

Security police said it was unlikely that leftist composer Miki Theodorakis would be released from prison today under the Christmas amnesty. They said certain formalities have not been fulfilled yet and he may be out by late Thursday. They did not elaborate.

Sources close to the government, asked to clarify who was affected by the Christmas amnesty announced by Papadopoulos, said the government is now going through the files of all the 2,600 political prisoners on the islands of Leros and Yioura.

Green Bay Downtown To Get $7.4 Million

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — An application for a $7.4 million federal grant to finance Green Bay's downtown urban renewal program has been approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Chicago.

The approval, which had been sought since October, was announced today by Mayor Donald Tilleman.

Cold Spell Not About To Leave—Weatherman

The Fox Valley was still locked in the grip of a cold wave today — with no immediate relief in sight. The official low in Appleton overnight failed to reach the zero reading, but only by one degree.

Tonight, however, the weatherman promises temperatures of at least minus 5 degrees, and possibly lower.

In addition, the five-day forecast shows average temperatures in the Valley of 6 to 12 degrees below normal, which puts the anticipated overnight lows at anywhere down to minus 10 degrees and daytime highs of no better than freezing.

Fair skies are expected to prevail until Friday, although scattered and frequent snow flurries can be expected early in the weekend.

All Wisconsin highways, except in the northeastern section, were in good winter driving condition today, according to the State Division of Highways. Widely scattered slippery spots prevailed in northeastern areas. Stevens Point cooled down to 16 below zero during the night. Superior had 12 below, Park Falls and Wausau 11 below, Eau Claire 9 below, Green Bay 6 below and Lone Rock 1 above zero.

In Tuesday's mostly fair weather, the mercury reached a peak of 20 at La Crosse and 17 at Lone Rock and Beloit. But Park Falls had a high of only 6, Green Bay 7 and Wausau and Superior 8.

At night a few scattered snow flurries fell in the northwestern area and some very light snow was reported in some southern sections.

Hogs Perish In Blaze at Waupaca

Damage to Barn, Contents Set at About $2,000

WAUPACA — Fire, believed to have started from faulty electric wiring, caused an estimated $2,000 damage about 2:40 p.m. Sunday to a barn on the Rhoda Anderson farm at route 3.

Fire Chief James R. Hansen said 15 hogs perished and 10 ton of straw in the 22 foot by 50-foot barn were destroyed. The fire was burning in the straw when the Waupaca Fire Department arrived.

Hansen said he was able to enter the barn as soon as the department arrived, but the pigs already had died, apparently of smoke inhalation.

Clintonville Sends Billings

Tax Collection Hours Listed by City Treasurer

CLINTONVILLE — Tax bills were sent out last weekend by James Lindow, city assessor-treasurer.

The total tax roll was $939,563, based on the 1967 assessment of $26,844,680 with a tax rate of $35 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

From the total tax roll, the state credits were deducted in the amount of $190,824, leaving a net of $748,739 to be collected.

Lindow announced his office would be open from 8 a.m. to noon each Saturday through the end of February. The Saturday hours are in addition to regular office hours of 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

5 Vocational Courses Set at Stockbridge

STOCKBRIDGE — Five courses will be offered at the high school here through Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District-12, the board of education learned at a recent meeting.

These will include industrial arts, homemaking and business courses for adults. Additional information will be available later from the vocational district.

In other business, school officials will make a study of installing a fence on the north side of the high school to improve the landscaping.

No successor has been found for board member Earl Hemauer, who moved to Arizona.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Jan. 25.

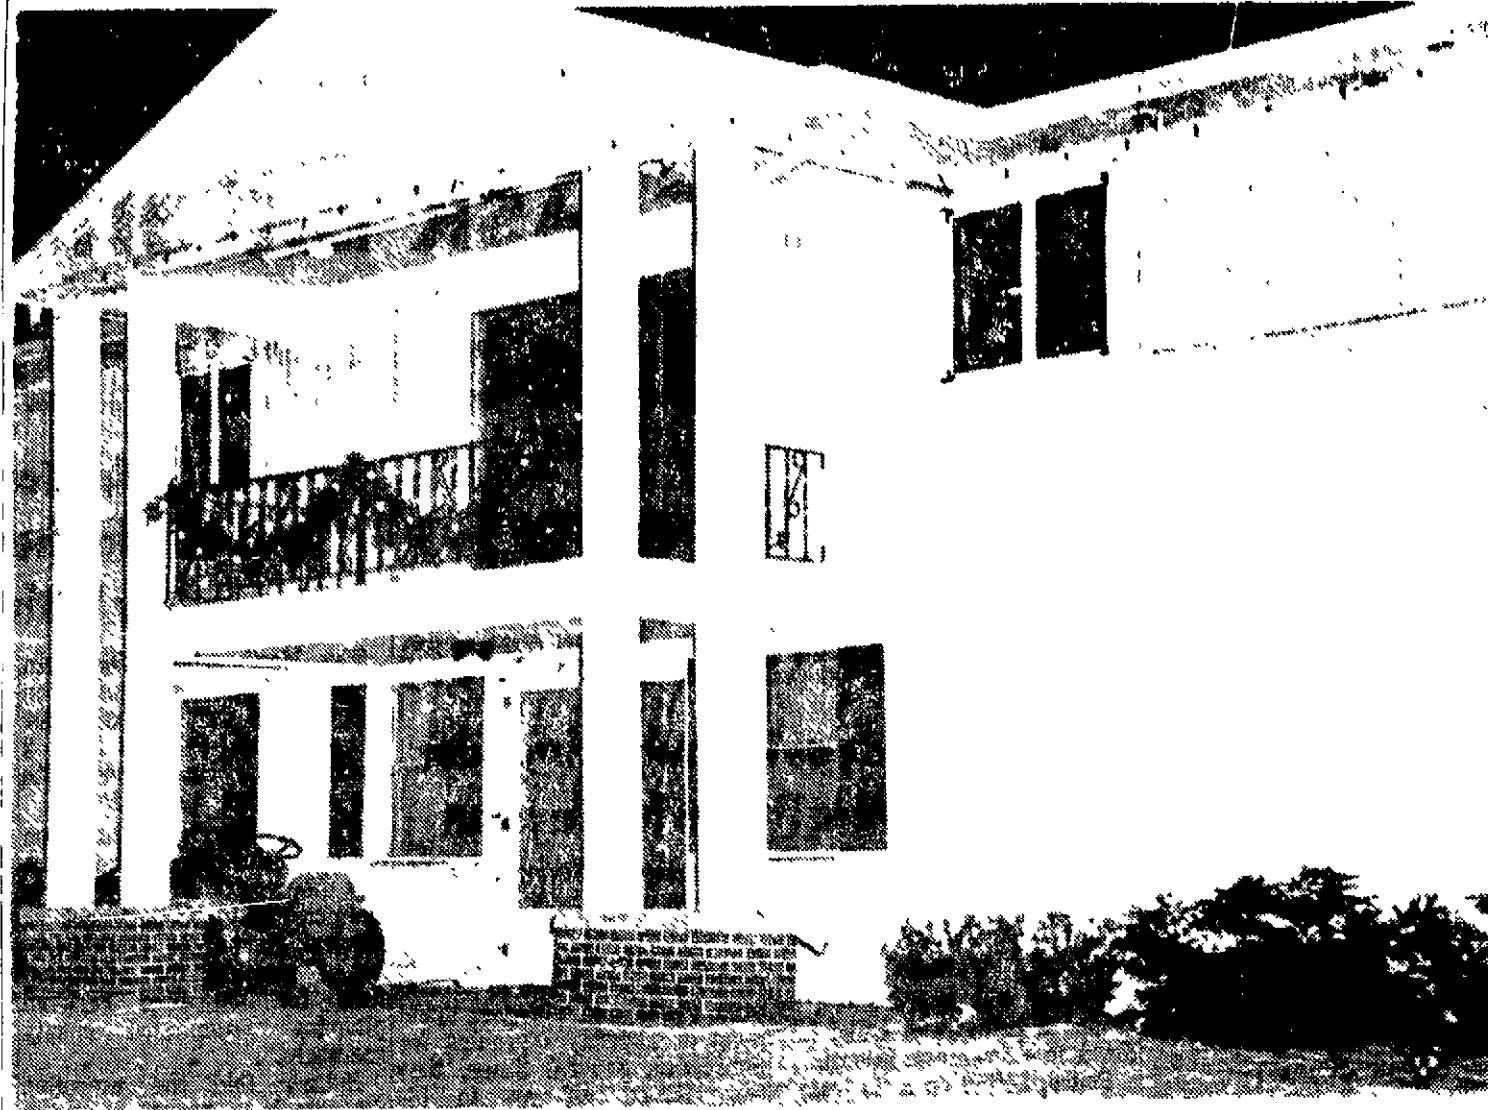

Two Structures Damaged Auto Winds Up Inside Building at Readfield

WAUPACA — Two buildings at Readfield were damaged extensively but a 19-year-old Wausau girl escaped injury in a spectacular one-car crash about 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

A car driven by Marliss D. Rux was headed west on U.S. 10 when she lost control of the car about 250 feet west of County Trunk H. County Police said the car crossed the highway, went down an embankment and struck the corner of an old garage on the Maoss estate and then crossed a private drive and crashed into a former cheese factory building owned by Robert Wiltz.

Police said the car smashed through a door on the east side of the Wiltz building, and struck a wall 27 feet inside the building before coming to a stop. The car plowed through several pieces of stored furniture.

Damage to the 1962 model car was estimated at $400.

Ice Contributing Factor

Minor Injuries Reported in Four Waupaca Yule Weekend Crashes

WAUPACA — No serious injuries were reported in four accidents investigated by Waupaca County police during the long Christmas Holiday weekend.

Key roads contributed to several of the accidents according to police.

Alfred W. Winter, 37, route 2, Weyauwega, was treated at Riverside Hospital, Waupaca, for sore ribs, a cut nose, and a cut over the right eye after the pickup truck he was driving ran off County Trunk X about 12:05 a.m. Sunday 1 1/2 miles southwest of Weyauwega.

Skidded on Ice Winter was traveling south-west on County X when his truck skidded on ice, hit the right shoulder of the road and then ran into the left ditch where it rolled over three times before coming to rest on its top. The 1959 model truck was listed as a total loss.

Ronald P. Luedtke, 28, West Allis, was apparently uninjured after the pickup truck he was driving north on County Trunk W, about 1 mile north of Readfield, went out of control about 2:30 p.m. Monday.

County police said Luedtke lost control of the truck and it ran into the right ditch. Damage was estimated at more than $100.

A car driven by Lowell F.

Oppor, 23, route 3, Lodi, was involved in a hit-and-run accident about 12:40 a.m. Sunday on State 22-110 about 3 1/2 miles south of Manawa.

Rounded Curve

Oppor told county police that he was headed south on State 22-110 when a car rounded a curve on the wrong side of the road colliding with another car which struck the left rear of his car. The other car failed to stop him. Abraham lost control of the car and it skidded into the ditch on the right side of the road.

Damage was estimated at $200 to a car driven by Thomas A. Abraham, 18, route 2, Manawa, when it skidded on ice on State 22-110 south of Manawa and ran into the ditch about 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Abraham told police that he pulled his car onto the right shoulder of the road to avoid colliding with another car which began to "fish-tail" in front of him. Abraham lost control of the car and it skidded into the ditch on the right side of the road.

Potter Church Plans New Year's Services, 2 January Meetings

POTTER—"Peace on Earth, Where is it?" will be the topic of the Rev. Gene Becker's sermon for the 8 p.m. New Year's Eve service at Peace United Church of Christ. The regular Sunday morning service will be at 9:30 a.m.

The annual church school meeting is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Jan. 7. A financial secretary to succeed Glenn Wenzel will be elected.

Priests Group Requests Voice In Replacing Bishop Bona

Board Asks Unprecedented Right To Advise in Selecting Bishop

A letter asking for a voice in the naming of a successor to the late Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona has been written by officials of the 250-member Priests Association of the Green Bay Diocese and sent to a number of members of the Catholic hierarchy.

The unprecedented unanimous action was taken in Green Bay during a Dec. 14 meeting of the 20-man board. Bishop Bona, head of the diocese since 1945, died Dec. 1. The sce is presently vacant.

The Green Bay Diocese priests, noting that methods for the choice of a new bishop are under scrutiny, suggested in the letter that new procedures give to the priests of a diocese some rights in the selection of candidates for episcopal appointments, which in each case are made finally by the Pope. Currently, new bishops are selected almost exclusively by other members of the hierarchy.

In the letter, it was pointed out that the Green Bay Diocese is unique in the state in that not one of its priests has been named a bishop for 63 years. Each of the other four dioceses in the state have had bishops from the ranks of their clergy within the past two decades.

Since 1904 The last Green Bay priest to be named, the Most Rev. Joseph Fox, received the rank of Bishop of Green Bay, in 1904, the letter commented.

"This sad fact may not be a compelling reason for our writing, but it is one of those very human factors which have led us to explore the more basic issues and policies at stake," the board has written.

A democratization of procedures for the selection of bishop "is called for by the spirit of renewal, by the times in which we live and by the particular American milieu of which we are happily a part," it continued.

Indicating some of the qualities looked for in the soon-to-be appointed eighth bishop of the diocese, the board wrote, "Our priests are intensely interested in the candidates' openness to renewal, his collegial spirit, his age, his convictions on episcopal retirement, his pastoral experience and the esteem with which he is held by his brother priests."

It also asked, "Is it possible for the priests of the diocese, or their elected representatives, to present to Your Excellency the name of one or more of our own priests whom we believe possess the necessary qualifications?"

Democratizing Procedures "We realize," the letter continues, "that the ways and means of democratizing traditional procedures have their uncertainties and dangers, and that steps need to be taken experimentally to learn their effectiveness. It is our humble but firm conviction that the time has arrived for some courageous steps in this direction."

In conclusion, the board has stated, "We believe that the Green Bay Diocese, well known for the sound loyalty of its priests to the Holy See and to the ordinary, is fertile ground for such an experiment."

The letter was signed by the Rev. William Spalding, Green Bay, president of the newly-formed association, and dated Dec. 18. The association has 250 members of the slightly more than 300 priests in the diocese.

"We just feel the priests should have a choice selecting their chief shepherd. We are not asking for an election, but only a mere democratic way of choosing a bishop," Father Spalding said.

He stressed the association has no one in mind, "nor do we have any detailed selection procedures." He said presently bishops from surrounding areas recommend a priest for the position and "Rome puts on its stamp of approval."

No Idea When asked if he was optimistic of the proposal's chances, Father Spalding said, "I have no idea. We are just trying to get the ball rolling."

Auxiliary Bishop John B. Grelinger, administrator of the diocese, said he had no comment on the request this morning. When asked if he would have a comment within the next few days, he said, "No, I'd rather not say anything."

Recipients of the letter include Archbishop Luigi Raimondi, Washington, D.C., apostolic delegate to the United States; Archbishop John Dearden, Detroit, president of the American Conference of Catholic Bishops; Archbishop William Cousins, Milwaukee, metropolitan of the Province of Wisconsin; and John Cardinal Cody, Chicago, ranking Midwestern prelate.

Copies also went to the Most Rev. Frederick Freking, bishop of La Crosse; the Most Rev. George Hammes, bishop of Superior; and the Most Rev. Cletus O'Donnell, bishop of Madison.

This action of the Priests' Association followed similar action taken by like groups in the Archdiocese of St. Louis and the Diocese of Des Moines, both of which are presently without bishops.

Steiger Plans Three Visits in Calumet County

CHILTON — A noon luncheon speech at the Chilton Rotary Club meeting Thursday at Hotel Chilton is included in itinerary of 6th District Rep. William Steiger, R-Oshkosh. After his talk, he will be at the court house here from 1:30 to 3 p.m. to meet his constituents and listen to their views on issues. Steiger's other appearances in Calumet County will be from 9:30 to 11 a.m. at the Brillion post office and from 3:30 to 5 p.m. at the New Holstein city hall.

Four Nuns Hurt In Auto Crash

St. John Elementary Teachers Injured Near Stevens Point

MENASHA — Four sisters of the Community of St. Joseph, teachers at St. John's Catholic grade school, were injured en route home for Christmas Monday in a headon collision nine miles east of Stevens Point on U.S. 10.

Sister Mary Dismas is in serious condition and Sisters Mary Ronald, Mary Doreen and Jean Marie are in satisfactory condition at St. Michael's Hospital, Stevens Point.

According to the Portage County Sheriff, the four sisters were riding in a car driven by William E. Trebatowski, Nelsonville, which was traveling west on U.S. 10.

The driver turned out for a snow plow about 9:30 a.m. and struck an eastbound car driven by Raymond Johnson, Nelsonville, Wis.

Johnson is listed in serious condition at St. Michael's Hospital and the other passenger in his car was also hospitalized.

Miss Linda Minton, Nelsonville, the sixth person in the Trebatowski car, is also in St. Michael's and was reported in satisfactory condition today.

St. Louis Woman Collects on Own Life Insurance

A St. Louis woman who celebrated her 100th birthday collected on her own Aid Association for Lutheran life insurance certificate.

Mrs. Anna Marie Albrecht, who lives at Lutheran Convalescent Home, St. Louis, may be the first person in the country to outlive the CSO41 mortality table, under which an ordinary life policy matures at age 100. The table was adopted in 1940s by most insurance companies.

Many people have outlived the American Experience Table in effect before that time and under which ordinary life insurance policies mature at age 96.

St. Louis representatives of the Appleton-based insurance company presented the centenarian with a plant and birthday message. Mrs. Albrecht, who has chosen to leave the proceeds of her certificate on deposit with AAL, also received a congratulatory letter from AAL President Walter L. Rugland.

self on the doorknob by one hand and the top of a garbage can by the other. He swung himself onto the car's hood. As he leaped off the hood to try to open the passenger side of the car, the car backed up and came for him again.

Hit Sign

Thompson ran around the west side of the station, onto a private yard. The car followed on the lawn between the buildings, smashed into the traffic fatality scoreboard at the front of the building. The sign toppled against Thompson's leg and knocked him to the ground.

He crawled along the corner of the building and the car went into the street, heading east in the westbound traffic lane of Main Street as two cars narrowly missed a collision.

The unlighted auto made a U-turn back to the police-fire station driveway and smacked into the front of the firehouse.

Thompson and another officer ran toward the car, which backed across the street once more and came after Thompson who ducked into the front door of the police station.

The car stopped about 10 feet short of the building, backed up and headed east on Main Street. Thompson ran out the back door and got into a squad car to make pursuit.

Fleeing Car

Another squad car, rushing to headquarters in response to an emergency radio message, saw the fleeing car and chased it north on Milwaukee Street at speeds in excess of 70 m.p.h.

It turned west on Eighth Street after trying to force the squad car off the road when it pulled abreast. The chase continued north on Tayco Street and east on Lisbon Street. Then the fleeing auto turned south onto Emily Street where a dead-end and a tree in a private yard blocked the car from fleeing further.

The police officer overpowered the driver in a scuffle and handcuffed him by the time other officers arrived.

hiding. They also checked at Kimberly. The youth reportedly was seen at least once near Sherwood and later near High Cliff State Park. Schroeder has several relatives living in the Appleton area.

Returned to Waupun Authorities at Fox Lake said that Schroeder was held there overnight, but will be returned to the state prison at Waupun.

The Appleton youth was sentenced to serve 10 years in Waupun in November 1966, after being found guilty of attempted armed burglary and 43 counts of burglary and attempted burglary. Schroeder, according to police, was part of a youthful ring of burglars that victimized nearly the entire Fox Valley area for several months in 1966.

Schroeder, who formerly lived at 209 W. Pacific St., Appleton, was in the prison at Waupun about 11 months, and was sent to the Fox Lake facility last Nov. 13.

Cuba Still Seeking Own Communism

Castro to Celebrate 10th Year Of Revolution Ousting Batista

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's government on Monday begins its 10th year, still struggling toward economic daylight and still experimenting to find its own level of communism.

There is every indication that the 10th year will be just as tough and just as unpredictable as the first nine.

Despite setbacks in 1967, the economy and the people are hanging on. Prime Minister Castro remains firmly in charge. His ideas dominate and he provides the momentum to keep things going.

When he mounts the platform Tuesday in Revolutionary Plaza to celebrate the anniversary, Castro likely will extol accomplishments, affirm make-revolution foreign policy and forecast better days for the island's eight million inhabitants.

Arms Display
Missing from the big show will be the customary display of Cuban armed might. Castro has concluded that such showings are too expensive to have every year.

But there will be no lack of enthusiasm evident for Castro and the men who helped him oust President Fulgencio Batista and now help him run the country. Thousands of Cubans will be mobilized for the celebration to cheer the revolution into another year.

How did it go in 1967 and what are the prospects for '68?

On the plus side, the government continued to diversify agriculture, sending new products overseas and lessening the island's dependence on sugar though it still accounts for 80 per cent of Cuba's foreign exchange.

Farming Gains
There are those who say that if production comes from only half of what Castro has planted — fruit, vegetables, coffee, tobacco, trees, rice — the country will have its breakthrough. Perhaps more significant are gains made by the beef industry. Many experts feel this is Cuba's best bet to break its one-crop syndrome. Experiments with feeding sugar derivatives to cattle are encouraging, and artificial breeding of fers, unbelievable possibilities in Castro's view.

Elsewhere there was progress in fish, egg and poultry production and slow advances in light industry.

There were setbacks too in 1967.

The sugar harvest, still the indicator of everything economic, fell below the planned goal of 7.5 million tons despite almost ideal weather and the biggest mobilization of manpower in history. The yield of 6.1 million tons left Castro far from his goal of 10 million tons by 1970. It also increased his sugar debt to Russia and seems certain to have jolted economic planning for 1968.

Sugar Harvest

The outlook for the current sugar harvest seems equally unencouraging, with rising indications it may not reach the 1967 level because of a severe drought.

Another setback was the death in Bolivia of the guerrilla idol and longtime friend of Castro, Ernesto Che Guevara.

Guevara's death made him a martyr in Cuba, but some said it proved the fallacy of making revolution with violence. Such dissension was immediately squelched.

This year solidified differences between Cuba and its biggest financial supporter, the Soviet Union.

But most informed Western and Eastern diplomats in Havana discount the chance of a serious break. Some observers say Castro, especially since Guevara's death, can be counted on to continue attacking Communist countries that give financial and technical aid to Latin governments which Cuba considers its enemies.

Domestic communism is in a state of transition. The present party, now two years old, still operates without a constitution. Often its objectives seem easier to discover by looking at what it opposes than at what it favors.

Last summer the party began moving into the ministries to attack a bureaucracy that entangles the government like bindweed. It is too early to say how successful the move will be.

The most apparent objective of the party is the creation of "the new man" for Cuba's "new society." Apparently the new man must be a tireless worker, composed of parts of Fidelism, nationalistic communism and guerrilla fervor. He must accept any assignment, believe every problem has a solution or an explanation, and above all oppose "egoistic individualism."

To some, this seems a paradox since Castro is probably the most individualistic leader Cuba has had.

For the Cuban people 1968 promises to be another year of sacrifice and shortage. Added to food and clothing rationing will be the virtual end of overtime pay and fresh demands for voluntary labor.

Starting with 1959, Cuba has observed official "years" designated successively: liberation, agrarian reform, education, planning, organization, the economy, agriculture, solidarity (with Socialist countries) and finally in 1967 "the year of heroic Vietnam."

Castro has described his revolution as having four stages: years of ignorance, years of agony, years of intense labor and years of triumph. He says Cubans are now between the third and fourth stages.

One Cuban, asked what he thought 1968 would be named, said he has no idea.

"Whatever they name it," he added, "I know it will mean more work."

Nelson Cites Survey

Investigation Urged in Drug Price Differences

Special to The Post-Crescent
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. Gaylord Nelson said Tuesday that both Congress and local government officials must investigate "scandalous discrepancies" in prices charged for drugs bought with tax money.

Citing a recent survey made by the Senate Monopoly subcommittee, Nelson said: "The prices paid for drugs by public institutions, hospitals, cities and counties show scandalous discrepancies, which indicate that taxpayers are being gouged all over the United States."

For example, Nelson said, many government agencies, hospitals, and institutions buy the tranquilizing drug, Librium, from its sole supplier, Hoffman-La Roche, Inc., of Nutley, N. J. The firm holds a patent on the drug so no one else can sell it.

"You would think," Nelson said, "that the prices paid would be similar, since all are buying the exact same drug from a single supplier."

Yet the price ranges from $18.50 paid by Philadelphia to $45 paid by Des Moines, Iowa, Nelson pointed out.

According to the Nelson survey, other prices paid for Librium were: Veterans Administration, $21.75; Wichita, Kan., $39.60; District of Columbia, $23.71; Paterson, N. J., $44; Los Angeles, $25.50; Newark, N. J., $39.60; Cleveland, Ohio, $42.75; Detroit, Mich., $28.50; Grand Rapids, Mich., $39.60. All these prices apply to the purchase of 500 tablets of the 25 mg size.

"The price discrepancies cannot be explained by quantity orders," Nelson said. The VA bought 35 times as much as Philadelphia, yet it paid a much higher price. Los Angeles paid a premium price even though it fact that taxpayers in some communities are paying many times as much as the taxpayers in other communities for identical drugs," Nelson said. "I know of no other product on the market in which these highly peculiar discrepancies occur. We have an obligation to the taxpayer citizens to learn the reasons for this."

"We cannot go on ignoring the reasons for this."

GOP Governors Testing Pre-Convention Muscle

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican governors have turned out some statistics to prove they'll have plenty of muscle as the GOP selects a presidential nominee next year.

But they haven't yet figured out how to flex that muscle.

Collectively, the 26 GOP governors would be a massive influence in the direction of the party and its choice of a nominee. But their influence is not being exerted collectively in the candidate field.

Here are the statistics compiled by the Republican Governors Association.

—The 26 states with Republican governors will have 302 electoral votes next year, 32 more than it will take to elect a President.

—The same 26 states will send 760 delegates to the Republican National Convention—93 more than it will take to nominate the Republican candidate and approve the party platform.

—Republicans govern states with about 58 per cent of the U.S. population, including 7 of the 10 largest states.

Still Overshadowed
Despite the statehouse strength evidenced by those figures, the governors still are overshadowed in party councils by the party's congressional minorities.

So far they have responded in two ways:

—They decided in Miami Beach, Fla., that GOP governors are going to raise their own campaign war chest for 1968 by claiming a percentage of the revenue from each fund-raising dinner a governor addresses.

This undoubtedly will encourage opposition from the GOP National Committee, which wants campaign fund-raising centralized, not diversified.

—They proposed that Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer be named co-chairman, with Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, of the platform committee at the Republican National Convention.

As a request, that's not likely to go far. Both Dirksen and National Chairman Ray C. Bliss can be expected to oppose a two-man chairmanship of the platform, although neither has taken a public position on the matter.

But by their own statistics the governors could, if they chose, move to enforce their proposal with delegate votes.

Vietnam Plank

The American Conservative Union argues the governors want part of the platform leadership because they fear Dirksen "may try for a strong party plank on Vietnam."

But there appear other reasons for the governors' platform move. One is simple: The state leaders are dissatisfied with congressional dominance of party councils. Too often for their liking, leadership roles are apportioned in Washington while they sit in far-off state capitals.

The other is more complex, but it has its roots in the governors' inability to coalesce around any of the potential nominees for the White House.

Unable to build a consensus for any candidate, the governors hope through the platform to influence the choice of a candidate and the campaign he runs. If they succeed, they will have reversed the traditional course of convention politics.

States Fighting to Reduce Pollution in Great Lakes

By KENT D. ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

States bordering the five Great Lakes are striving to puncture predictions that the water will soon be too polluted for use by humans, but some cities continue to disease the lakes with poorly treated sewage.

Ontario and states edging Lakes Erie, Michigan, Ontario, Superior and Huron have taken steps to regulate and reduce the flow of waste materials: government and industry are spending millions to combat the problem.

But some cities continue to dump inadequately treated sewage into the Great Lakes and even the federal government has admitted it is a prime offender.

A U.S. Army Corps of Engineers official admitted at a House subcommittee hearing in Washington in October that the agency was polluting Lake Michigan with harbor dredgings. He cited insufficient funds as the problem and testified that pollution from the dredging was small in comparison to other pollutants.

Rep. Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., replied that the amount of pollution caused by the corps is not the point.

"The problem," he said, "is that you really can't crack down on private industry when you have a federal agency doing any kind of polluting."

Ease Problem

But the government, too, has recognized the dangers of continued pollution of the lakes and has taken steps to alleviate the problem.

In April the Corps of Engineers started a pilot program of alternate disposal methods in eight areas on the lakes.

In December the corps completed two dikes in Cleveland, Ohio on Lake Erie to control pollution from sediment and to keep river channels navigable. The dikes form the walls of two cribs where dredgings from the Cuyahoga River can be dumped.

The two dikes are part of an experimental program at eight Great Lakes ports. Other ports are at Green Bay, Wis.; Calumet River, Chicago; Buffalo, N.Y.; Toledo, Ohio; Sodus Bay, near Rochester, N.Y., and River Rouge in Detroit.

Each region bordering the lakes has its individual pollution problems.

Recreations Hurt

Michigan was stirred to action in 1962 when Sterling State Park, near Monroe, was posted as unsafe for swimming. A study noted that the pollution was interfering with water supplies, fishing, swimming, boating and other recreation.

The city of Erie, Pa., discharges excess from its sewage treatment facilities into the lake during storm emergencies because the sanitary and storm sewers are combined and become overloaded in heavy rainstorms.

In Ontario, Canada, the Water Resources Commission reported that about 300 plants—nearly half—discharging wastes into lake watersheds are providing inadequate controls.

The commission says most of the plants are in the pulp and paper, mining and food processing fields.

Oil Pollution

The New York Department of Health said recently that the increase in the transport of oil on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River has resulted in several cases of oil pollution. The department reported that oil pollution has had an adverse effect on recreational use of the waters and on fish and wildlife.

These problems have spurred the states to halt pollution. Lake Michigan pollution is being tackled by a regional conference which will meet in Chicago Jan. 31. The states scheduled to take part in the conference are Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Here is what some of the Great Lakes states have done to combat water pollution:

—The Illinois Legislature adopted a law in October banning dumping in Lake Michigan without a state permit and approved in July a referendum on a $1-billion bond issue to fight water and air pollution. The referendum will be held in 1968.

Chicago Suit

The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago filed suit in Circuit Court against one Chicago steel plant and 12 plants in Indiana asking that they be enjoined from polluting Lake Michigan.

—Indiana and Illinois officials set Dec. 31 1968, as the deadline for completion of industrial and municipal waste treatment facilities where needed near the south end of Lake Michigan.

—The Michigan Water Resources Commission set Nov. 1, 1968, as the deadline for approval of pollution abatement plans. Facilities under the program must be in operation by Nov. 1, 1970.

—The Minnesota Legislature created a Pollution Control Agency with increased power, staff and funds.

New York Study

—In New York comprehensive sewage treatment studies are under way in 17 counties along the Great Lakes to develop immediate and long-range plans for treatment facilities. In tough antipollution law was enacted in Ontario 14 industries have been convicted or pleaded guilty for violations.

Several industries near the lakes have started their own antipollution programs voluntarily. The Michigan Water Resources Commission said that some large industries—notably Dow Chemical Co. of Midland and Consumers Power Co. of Jackson—started their own programs early. But the commission said others wouldn't move until they were pushed.

Inland Steel Co. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. agreed in October to allow dredgings from the Indiana Harbor Canal to be deposited in uncompleted landfill projects at their East Chicago, Ind., steel plants for the remainder of the year.

The near-suicidal commitment of men to battle appears to be just one of half a dozen tactics used in the Communists' greatest offensive of the war. This began in late October and is continuing.

The most experienced observers say that the Reds' firepower and willingness to sacrifice troops point to the most significant factor in 1967: An apparent Hanoi decision to launch a fight-to-the-finish struggle.

To this purpose the Communists are sending men and supplies openly down the Ho Chi Minh and Sihanouk trails into the South despite a fantastic bombing campaign. By December the United States had dropped more bombs on North and South Vietnam than it dumped on Europe in World War II—about 100 pounds of explosives for every man, woman and child in the two Vietnams.

Critical Position
The Communists have placed Westmoreland and his allies in what could well be a critical position in 1968.

Increased intensity in the conventional war has overshadowed the pacification program. Winning the hearts and minds of the population had to suffer while the allies stemmed Communist troops slipping into the Dak To hills and across the DMZ.

The commitment of allied troops to the borders and away from the people may have fulfilled an enemy aim. If this was the plan it succeeded to a large degree in the 1st Corps region to a limited degree in the 2nd Corps.

These factors may shape 1968 into the war's climax:

—North Vietnam has matched the allied troop buildup almost battalion for battalion. With the U.S. troop commitment stabilizing, the Communists might try to open more fronts, battering at American units necessarily spread thin across the country.

—American casualties could rise even more than in the past year. Communist forces are being exhorted by their leaders to strike first at the Americans. Enemy weaponry will become more sophisticated.

Invasion Pressure
—Pressure will continue to mount for allied troops to invade Laos and Cambodia, and possibly North Vietnam, particularly if infiltration continues at the present level.

—If the war gets larger, the confidence of the Vietnamese people in the Saigon government will be tested. Many observers expect antiwar sentiment to rise among the population.

Recent American troop arrivals, including the rest of the 101st Airborne Division, have for the first time in months given Westmoreland an offensive striking force. He is expected to use it in spectacular style early in the new year.

But the enemy troop buildup threatens to neutralize even the 101st by spring, forcing American commanders to forego the offensive mobility that characterized American operations in 1966 and early 1967.

The North Vietnamese will be fielding nine infantry divisions by mid-1968 if current intelligence estimates prove correct. Presumably the Communists think this will place them in a better position to launch the kind of action that brought them success against the French. In October 1950 Ho Chi Minh used 23 Viet Minh battalions to smash French defenses along the Chinese border. He has not deployed anywhere near that number of battalions at one place in Vietnam.

Plans for Delta
Increased enemy capability may frustrate Westmoreland's plans to establish a 4th American corps headquarters at Can Tho, in the Mekong Delta, early in 1968. Each of the delta's 16 provinces, except the Hoa Hao religious sect's province of An Giang, has as many armed guerrillas and Communist cadre as did the whole of Malaya at the height of its insurgency in 1950. Westmoreland is known to be anxious to start cleaning the delta out with U.S. forces.

American dead in the tougher fighting this year rose to an average of 193 a week, against 92 in 1966. Troop commitments increased by a third this year. Casualties doubled.

American strategy is to keep casualties to a minimum by the maximum use of supporting air and artillery power, but the Reds' creation of battlefields in the periphery mountains tended to neutralize the effectiveness of supporting fire.

Better Weapons
The rising sophistication of Communist weaponry is worrying American commanders. They find that some of their infantry units are outgunned in head-on clashes in the jungle. Communist troops carry the highly effective AK47 automatic rifle. Many have started slinging B40 and B50 bazooka-type rocket launchers around their necks and using them effectively.

Whole regiments of enemy heavy rocketeers began deploying in South Vietnam in 1967, armed with the 122 fin-stabilized rocket and the 140mm rocket. Several of these units are known to be in the country but have not yet shown up in battle.

Along the DMZ the Communists have deployed artillery and rockets, not as many as the 350 pieces pitted against the French at Dien Bien Phu, but enough to give U.S. Marines there a miserable existence.

One knowledgeable American has expressed fear that Vietnam is becoming a contest in weaponry between the United States and Russia. The Soviet Union provides all the sophisticated weapons in the North Vietnamese arsenal.

Uprooted From Homes
The confidence of the Vietnamese people in the government that it elected this year is being carefully watched. Approximately four million people, or one quarter of the population, have been uprooted from their homes. By the best available estimates, 25,000 civilians were killed this year. Hundreds of villages were burned to the ground by both sides, and an estimated 5 per cent of the land under cultivation was defoliated with herbicide sprays to prevent the Viet Cong from using it.

A senior American civilian in the 2nd corps region told a reporter this month: "If the people in my area had the choice of continuing the war, or living in peace under the Viet Cong, they'd take the Viet Cong." This was an extreme viewpoint but an indication of how depressing the war has become to many of the people.

Diplomacy Favored In Cambodian Spat

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a sharp rebuff from Cambodia, President Johnson still hopes to find a diplomatic solution to the problem of Communist forces using Cambodian territory as a sanctuary from which to attack South Vietnam.

U.S. officials said Johnson intends to exhaust all the resources of diplomacy before considering other means of dealing with the problem.

Officials report, however, that pressures are growing inside the Johnson administration for military action if diplomacy fails.

The United States has charged several times previously that Communist forces—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese—were taking refuge in Cambodia when hard-pressed in South Vietnam and sometimes attacking U.S. and South Vietnamese troops by operations from across the Vietnamese-Cambodian border.

Note Sent

On Dec. 4, the State Department reported Tuesday, the United States sent a note to the Cambodian government "as part of a sincere effort to provide the Cambodian government with information which would enable it to move toward a solution of a problem we believe should be of concern to the Cambodian government as well as the United States government."

The not proposed strengthening of an international control commission for Cambodia to enable it to prevent use of Cambodian territory by the Communists as far as possible.

It also stated, according to a State Department spokesman, that the United States respects "the neutrality, sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity of Cambodia" and "has no hostile intentions toward Cambodia or Cambodian territory."

Plan Rejected

The proposal was rejected in a Cambodian note received here late last week and made public by the government in Phnom Penh. Notes were exchanged through Australia since the United States and Cambodia do not have diplomatic relations.

"The royal Cambodian government considers as an attempt against Cambodian sovereignty," the note said, "the groundless accusations and the suggestions to cooperation made to solve the alleged problem of violation of Cambodian neutrality by the forces of the DRV (North Vietnam) and NLFV (the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong)."

The Cambodian note charged that the United States and its allies in South Vietnam are already conducting some limited military operations against Cambodia, which it denounced as "flagrant violations of international law."

Attacks on Civilians

The note specified "daily incursions into Khmer (Cambodian) air space, attacks and terrorist bombings on the Cambodian civilian population in the frontier zones, and infiltrations by commandos for the purposes of sabotage and assassination."

Officials say the only policy now existing that would permit U.S. operations involving Cambodian territory is that giving military commanders freedom—when U.S. forces are fired on from across the border—to return fire.

The issue of what to do about sanctuaries is considered in official quarters here to present the President with a broader problem—whether to use force against enemy hideaways or base positions in Cambodian territory.

As a matter of policy, officials say, this alternative is presently being held in the background while diplomatic efforts are under way to deal with the problem. Indications were the United States would take other diplomatic steps, probably involving one or more new notes to the government of Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Presidential Hopeful in Vietnam

Allies Winning Militarily While Losing 'Other War,' Romney Says

SAIGON (AP) — Presidential hopeful George Romney said today that "military victories are being won" by the United States and its allies in South Vietnam but the Communists are winning the so-called other war.

"Our military victories are being won without corresponding victories in the political, economic and social fields," Romney told a news conference at the end of a three-day visit. Romney also criticized the proportion of the U.S. effort in South Vietnam, saying "there remains the problem of the United States tending to do too much of the job themselves."

Misled Previously

The Michigan governor said again that he had been misled on his previous visit to South Vietnam more than two years ago but that he had gotten a more rounded view this time.

"I indicated very frankly that I was given a conducted tour last time and that this did mislead me" he said. He expressed anger over the criticism of his statement in a television interview last Sept. 4 that U.S. military and diplomatic officials had "brainwashed" him on his previously visit.

"That's past," he said. "I'm here to discuss the present and the future."

He added that he hoped the U.S. public is not going to hold the statement against him. "I leave here with a basic grasp of the situation," Romney declared.

Enemy Victorious

"By our yardsticks—the measurements of our military men—we're winning the military actions," he said. "There are actions outside the military field, and there the enemy are winning some substantial victories."

"We have no way of measuring the military victories from the standpoint of the enemy's objectives. I personally am not impressed with the body count methods of measuring success. It's such a big and complex situation and so few people understand it."

Tennessee State Prison

Warden Gets Inmates To Surrender Weapons

NASHVILLE Tenn. (AP) — As two prisoners held a guard hostage with a knife to his throat, Warden Murray Henderson stepped alone into a Tennessee State Prison cellblock Tuesday night and talked the men into surrendering.

"You don't get things done that way," Henderson told the men.

The prisoners, Donald Lee Hancock, 21, and William T. Arthur, 29, turned over their weapons without further resistance and were placed in a maximum security unit.

The warden's action ended a brief flareup of violence which began at a Christmas music show and ended with three guards hospitalized with stab wounds.

Alerted at his home after the outbreak, Henderson rushed to the prison and found Hancock and Arthur with a knife at the throat of another guard, Byron Bean.

"I told them to cut that stuff out, that such didn't go on inside a prison," said the warden. Hancock is serving a 55-year term in the slaying of a state trooper at Shelbyville, Tenn., and Arthur, convicted in Chattanooga of armed robbery and murder, has a 100-109-year term.

'Loud Groan'

Billy Dee of the Clyde Beavers Band, which was performing at the Christmas show, said the group was in its last number "when we heard a loud groan or scream coming from the back. It was loud enough to carry over our playing."

"That was when they got the first guard," Dee said.

Commissioner Avery said the auditorium was crowded with more than 1,200 persons when an inmate attempted to leave the country music show.

The prisoner was ordered back by a guard, Avery said, "and another inmate ran out and stabbed him (the guard)." The third officer was stabbed later in a cellblock struggle.

The knives, apparently fashioned in the prison metal shop from steel plates, had blades approximately five to six inches long.

Officials Startled by Expansion of State-Supported Higher Education

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Even the professionals privately express their astonishment at the burgeoning physical expansion of the huge state-supported system of higher education.

Not only is there a big building program continuing year after year at each of the 11 major and established campuses, but ground has been broken for five new collegiate institutions during the last few months. Enrollments at the existing University operated extension centers in seven localities suggests strongly that there will be more building there in the next few years.

Wyngaard

Work has begun on new four-year campuses near Green Bay and Kenosha, and on new freshman-sophomore centers at Baraboo, West Bend and Fond du Lac. Planned for next year is another two year center in Medford, and two year curricula were put into operation this fall in Rice Lake and Richland Center.

Capitol insiders say that Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette will make known his 1968 political plans about Jan. 14. Betting continues that he will declare himself for the Democratic nomination for governor, mostly on the basis of comments dropped by associates.

In a floor discussion of the reorganization of the legislature, Assemblyman J. Curtis McKay, R-Cedarburg, the Republican majority leader of the lower house was unable to resist a witticism.

The speaker of the Assembly, he said, used to be known as the second most powerful officer in the state government — after the governor.

"But that was before Fred Harvey Harrington" (of the University of Wisconsin) he amended.

What can be done when a judge, due to ill health, advanced age, or other reasons, is absent from the bench for a prolonged period?

The State Bar of Wisconsin has set up a special committee to review the subject, with the assistance of Warren Resh, the retired assistant attorney general, as special counsel. The review had been strongly urged by Edwin Wilkie, the new state court administrator.

The comparatively easy passage in the Legislature of the bill to liberalize substantially the rights of police and firemen to retire — at age 55 after 25 years of service — and the inclusion of hundreds of additional employees in the definition of hazardous occupations is another example of the persuasive powers of the public employe lobby.

Gov. Knowles will be urged to veto the measure, because of the increased cost potential. But the local employe unions are sophisticated in politics, get expert instructions, and will be hard for any governor in a reelection year to deny.

There is concern, and criticism, in some quarters about the chance that the Republican-controlled Legislature may have authorized more expenditures this year than the existing state revenue schedule can bear, and that the claim of a balanced budget without new taxes will therefore be disproved at the end of the biennium.

Such speculation leaves out of account the traditional habit of state revenue officers to calculate potential tax income conservatively, thus almost always leaving a larger surplus than the Legislature was told when it was making appropriations. Sen. Frank Panzer, R-Brownsville, the veteran legislator who is now president emeritus of the Senate, made a reputation as a kind of seer because he was familiar with that habit and based his own forecasts on it in many previous terms.

If somebody could devise a method measuring pressure on the Legislature on any individual issue, the trading stamp lobby would be in the running for the championship.

Organized labor, the State Chamber of Commerce, some consumer groups, some retailing organizations, some big Wisconsin manufacturing companies interested in the trading stamp premium market, not to mention the stamp distributors, have been putting every ounce of their energy for years behind the bills to legalize stamp redemption in merchandise. Present law permits only cash redemption.

The only visibly organized opposition is that of the small merchants. But again this year the drive for legislative votes failed, as it has failed for nearly a quarter of a century. That the pressure should continue so patiently, however, suggests the importance of the question to the stamp backers.

Ody Fish, the Republican state chairman, was entertaining the staff of GOP state headquarters at a holiday lunch in a leading Madison restaurant when he encountered a friend at the bar and insisted upon introducing him to his guests.

He returned to the private dining room and made a "man who" speech as a politician would, and then presented a grinning David Carley, the Democratic national committeeman for Wisconsin, who evidently enjoyed the experience.

Watch for a stronger legislative and political punch in the future from organized classroom educators. The Wisconsin Education Association has revised its dues schedule to finance a substantial addition to its staff and is now recruiting for the key new positions, including publicity and field organization specialists.

Generally unnoticed in the enactment of the new Wisconsin presidential primary law is the fact that it made no provision for third party candidates to run in the Wisconsin presidential trial heats in spite of the state's traditionally liberal laws in that regard. It was probably an oversight, but it means, for example, that Gov. George Wallace won't be able to test his third party candidacy here in the spring. If he proceeds with the plan he seemingly has in mind, he could get on the ballot in the fall, however, through the petition process. In 1964 he ran in the Democratic presidential primary here and he could do so again, if he chose.

Man Who Locked Out Family Is Sentenced To 30 Days in Jail

A 53-year-old route 2 West DePere man who was charged with disorderly conduct after he locked his family out of the house Nov. 2, was sentenced to 30 days in the Outagamie County Jail Tuesday after he changed his plea to guilty.

Milton Archiquette had pleaded innocent Dec. 18 and was to stand trial March 28. He has been in jail under $100 bond.

An Outagamie County Department of Health and Social Services caseworker who brought the charge said Archiquette locked his family out of their Town of Oneida house Nov. 2.

Is there a cure for piles?

Many leading authorities say there is no cure for piles short of surgery. But in some cases there is a product that may relieve pile pain. Its name is M.P.O. — Mentholatum Pile Ointment. M.P.O. contains Benzocaine, a topical anesthetic hospitals use to soothe burns and skin rash. It can give relief for hours. Get M.P.O. at your drug counter, in ointment or suppositories.
